

Two Menasha Boys Drown In Winnebago

Third Gains Shore After Friends are Caught In Undertow

BODIES RECOVERED

Drownings Claim Three Other Victims in State Friday

Menasha — Kenneth Johnson, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Johnson, 373 Oak street, Menasha, and Joseph Skibba, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Skibba, 209 Elm street, Menasha, drowned at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon while swimming in Lake Winnebago near Pratt's creek north of the Chester Shepard estate.

One of the boys drowned while attempting to rescue the other. The two boys and Richard Geiger, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Geiger, 421 Ahnaip street, Menasha, were swimming beyond their depth more than 100 feet from shore. The boys tired and started to return to shore.

The undertow caused by the creek and deep holes in that locality caught Johnson and pulled him under. Skibba and Geiger went to Johnson's assistance and started to pull him toward shore when Skibba developed a cramp. Unable to help both boys, Geiger swam to shore and went for help. The boys drowned less than 100 feet from shore.

Recover Bodies
Two gardeners, Louis Helmke, 616 Grove street, Menasha, a gardener on the Shepard estate, and Leo Gosz, a gardener on the C. W. Spickerman estate, recovered the bodies. Johnson had been in the water about 35 minutes and Skibba, whose body was recovered first, was in the water about 20 minutes.

Fire and police department squads and volunteers performed artificial respiration on the boys and the fire department's inhalator was applied for about an hour but without effect. Dr. G. A. Steele, Oshkosh, Winnebago county coroner, pronounced the boys dead.

Three other Menasha boys escaped drowning shortly before the other tragedy in the mouth of the Fox river at Menasha. They were Robert Thelen, 15, and Paul Thelen, 17, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thelen, 723 First street, and Robert Prunuske, 17-year-old son of Mrs. Andrew Prunuske, 633 Third street.

Skiff Reels Over
The boys had rigged a sail on a skiff and were sailing out of the Fox river into Lake Winnebago when a strong wind keeled over the craft. Mrs. William Kellett, Brighton Beach, heard the boys' cries for help. Felix Rappert, 965 Appleton street, went to the boys' rescue.

Joseph Skibba was born in Appleton April 17, 1926. He was in the seventh grade at St. Patrick's school. Survivors are his parents, a brother, Edward, grandparents, Mrs. Edward Mooney, Menasha, and Mrs. Joseph Skibba, Antigo.

Funeral services will be at 9 o'clock Monday morning at St. Patrick's church with the Rev. W. P. Mortell in charge. Burial will be in St. Margaret Mary cemetery. Rosary will be said Sunday evening at the Laemmrich Funeral home where the body will be from this evening to the time of the services. Boy scouts of Troop 3, St. Patrick's church, will be the bearers.

Fifth Grade Student
Kenneth Johnson was born Oct. 29, 1927 in Menasha. He was in the fifth grade at Nicolet school and a member of the Cub pack No. 1, den 4.

Survivors are his parents, two brothers, William and Jerome, Jr., two sisters, Elaine and Nancy Lou, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bratz, Menasha, and William Johnson, Neenah.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 Sunday afternoon at the Laemmrich Funeral home and at 2 o'clock at the Trinity Lutheran church.

Russia Wants Study of Full Border Issue

Japan Is Anxious for End Of Hostilities and for Diplomatic Action

RAILROAD IS BOMBED

24 Soviet Planes Reported In Attack Upon Korean Territory

Tokio—(U)—Japan held out today for cessation of hostilities and diplomatic negotiations to settle as an isolated episode the 26-day Soviet-Japanese strife on the Siberian-Manchoukuo frontier.

Russia, however, demanded a study of the legal aspects of the whole border question, which has irked both countries for years, as prerequisite to a practical settlement of the present incident.

This was disclosed today by the Japanese foreign office when it released a partial report of conversations in Moscow. Thursday between Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu and Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar of foreign affairs.

Japan placed the responsibility on Russia for the large-scale fighting which broke out July 31 in the Changkufeng hill area, where borders of Manchoukuo, Siberia and Korea meet.

Attack Soviet Troops
At the same time an anti-communist said Japanese troops bombarded Soviet troop concentrations near Changbi and Shachofeng, in the Changkufeng region.

Another communique said a dozen Soviet soldiers crossed the border near Suifenho and began erecting defenses.

The army announced later that general fighting broke out in the vicinity of Changkufeng about 8:30 a. m.

The Soviet invasion was said to have retreated under an artillery bombardment.

At 10:30 a. m., the communique said, Japanese and Russian batteries engaged in an artillery duel which ended by the Soviet guns being silenced. A Russian bomber was reported shot down by anti-aircraft guns during a raid on Kogi and Shikai, Korea.

The army said the Japanese had destroyed four Russian tanks and four heavy guns.

Domei (Japanese news agency) reported the Soviets "apparently are planning to recapture Changkufeng before a diplomatic settlement is reached."

ATTACK ON RAILWAY
Kogi, Korea (Near the Siberian Border by Courier to Yuki)—(U)—Reliable eyewitnesses said today 24 Soviet Russian planes raided Korean territory at 2:30 p. m. (11:30 p. m. C. S. T.) and bombed the Tumen-Rashin railway 15 miles north-west of Yuki.

The Rashin railway is a vital line which parallels the Korean border and connects the seaport with Kirin and Hsinking, Manchoukuo.

It was the first time Soviet Russian planes made so intensive a raid upon Korean territory, across the disputed finger of territory from Siberia which has been the source of repeated incidents since July 11.

Communication on the railway was reported partly interrupted.

Heat Still Rules Most of Country

Humidity and Torrential Rains Help Take Toll Of at Least 30 Lives

By the Associated Press
Steaming, muggy weather spread over the eastern two-thirds of the nation today.

The end of the week saw the death toll from the heat, humidity and torrential rains raised to at least 30.

Update New York counted 20 dead in the last four days. Eight drowned after heavy rains swept the Great Smoky mountain region of Tennessee. There were two deaths in Pennsylvania.

Chicago had a noon temperature of 88 with humidity at 55 per cent, considerably less than much of the sweltering nation.

Milwaukee had 79 degrees and 81 per cent humidity.

Indiana temperatures ranged from 70 to 90 and the humidity was high.

It was 104 in Iowa yesterday and there was heavy rain last night in many places.

Cool breezes brought temporary relief in Missouri and local thunderstorms were forecast.

The weather bureau said somewhat cooler weather ahead over the extreme northern plains, lower Missouri valley and north Atlantic states, but that temperatures remained above normal in most southern and eastern sections.

Week's Weather

Chicago—(U)—The weather outlook for the period of Aug. 8 to 13: Great Lakes and upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys—Generally fair weather with seasonal temperature, except occasional afternoon thunderstorms.

Northern and central great plains—Generally fair weather; temperatures mostly above normal.

Two Men Slain in Parked Auto in Chicago Mystery

Chicago—(U)—Two men were mysteriously shot to death today as they slept in a parked automobile. Witnesses said the killings were done by one gunman, who leaped from a car, fired through open windows at his victims and then rejoined a companion to make a quick getaway.

The dead men were Bruno Switaj, 35, and Leo Moczinski, 34. One rested in the front seat of the auto, the other in the rear.

Authorities said robbery apparently was not the motive, for the crime. Relatives of Switaj told them he had no known enemies. A pharmacist by profession, he recently had been working as a clothing salesman. Moczinski was employed as a doorman in a handbook place, police officials said.

The assassinations occurred in front of the home and office of Alderman Joseph Roetenkowski of the Thirty-second ward.

Warner Oland, 57, Charlie Chan of Movies, Is Dead

Veteran of Screen and Stage Is Pneumonia Victim in Sweden

Stockholm, Sweden—(U)—Warner Oland, 57, famous as an actor in Hollywood Oriental roles, died at 3 p. m. (6 a. m. Appleton time) today.

Death came at a Stockholm hospital where he had been ill with pneumonia.

The veteran character actor died in his homeland, he was Swedish by birth despite his Oriental features. He was stricken while on a holiday visit here, and had been seriously ill for some time.

Oland was born in Umea, Sweden, Oct. 3, 1880, and went to the United States when he was 13.

He made his film debut with Theda Bara in "Jewels of Madonnas" and in 1925 played the villain role in Douglas Fairbanks' "Don Q."

He also played the villain in many of the pictures of Pearl White, star of the silent thrillers, whose funeral was in Paris today.

Looked Like Chinese
Hollywood movie directors cast Oland as a Chinese, and making men saw to it that he looked the part. Many of the mannerisms of the Orient he affected on the screen stayed with him in his daily life.

When he visited China a few years ago the Chinese mistook him for one of their race.

Oland was the flesh and blood characterization of "Charlie Chan," the Oriental detective from the pen of Earl Derr Biggers. He received his high school education in Boston, Mass., and then attended a dramatic school there. Most of his

Former Governor of Illinois, Civil War Veteran, Succumbs

Bloomington, Ill.—(U)—Joseph W. Fifer, 97 years old and a former governor of Illinois, died of a heart attack at his home today.

The former governor suffered a severe heart attack only a short time after a physician had called on him today. He died at 10:40 a. m. (C. S. T.). The announcement made several hours later by his only daughter, Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer.

Governor Fifer had recovered from a fractured hip which had incapacitated him last winter, but suffered a heart attack about two weeks ago.

The governor was a Republican. He was born Oct. 28, 1840, in Staunton, Va., and served as governor from 1889 to 1893.

Fifer, a veteran of the Civil war, was elected governor after a campaign in which he was known as "Private Joe." He was re-elected for reelection by John P. Altgeld, a Democrat.

The notification was contained in a letter signed by the four officers. It was handed to Paul E. Miley and Ellsworth Kramer, executive board members, at the office of Maurice Sugar, attorney for the defendants, Richard T. Frankenstein, Wyndham Mortimer, Walter N. Wells and Ed Hall. The trial, which has been in recess since July 29, was resumed today, without the defendants.

Believe WDA Is Certain of Project Grant

Rumor Ickes Approved Plan Before Going On Alaskan Trip

F. D. R. FAVORABLE

Executive Office Prepares Press Material Boosting Proposal

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The belief that LaFollette administration officials have received assurances from Harold Ickes, FWA administrator, that their application for a $26,000,000 loan and grant on behalf of the Wisconsin Development authority for the extensive Wisconsin-Fox rivers development project will be approved grew here today for several reasons.

First it was disclosed that the executive office has arranged for the dispatching over the weekend of press releases to several hundred state newspapers outlining the advantages of the huge project in power development, reclamation, water pollution, and navigation.

In the light of the extreme hesitation of LaFollette lieutenants to discuss the development proposal earlier in the week, that fact was considered by Capitol observers as indicating that the WDA is pretty certain of getting the huge grant from the federal government.

Amount Uncertain
Second, it was learned through indirect but authoritative sources that one of LaFollette's closest associates and a leader in the power development proposal has let it be known that Secretary Ickes approved the Wisconsin application before he left for his Alaska vacation.

The total amount of money granted and loaned may be less than the state men asked for—some sources reported the figure to be $20,000,000 instead of $26,000,000—but Mr. Ickes and President Roosevelt, who keeps an eye on the big PWA grants, are definitely favorable to the Wisconsin job, it was said.

If the project is approved, Capitol observers agreed today, interpretations on the trend of current Wisconsin politics may have to be revised.

As one shrewd student of Wisconsin affairs in the statehouse put it: "If the New Deal sends $26,000,000 into Wisconsin for Phil LaFollette's pet power program, it's going to be awfully hard to convince anyone that President Roosevelt and the governor are mad at each other."

Nearly everyone assumed, when the governor cut loose from the New Deal with the formation of his National Progressive party, that the action meant an end to friendly relations between the governor's office and the White House.

Face Hearing in Securities Case

Milwaukee Investment Dealers to Appear Aug. 12 in Madison Court

Madison—(U)—William J. Kenyon and Leon B. Smith, Milwaukee investment dealers, will be given preliminary hearing in superior court here Aug. 12 on charges of violating the state securities law.

They pleaded innocent when arraigned yesterday before Judge Roy H. Proctor.

J. W. Herron of Milwaukee, president of Tung Industries Inc., whose short term notes the defendants were alleged to have sold illegally, was being sought by police. Herron also was named in a warrant charging violation of the securities act but did not appear for arraignment.

Judge Proctor fixed bond at $5,000 for Kenyon and $2,000 for Smith. They produced a real estate bond but the court accepted it only for Smith's bail. Kenyon was taken to the Dane county jail where he sought today to arrange bond.

The state securities division charged that Tung Industries notes were sold with an understanding they could be converted into company stock which had not been approved for sale in this state.

Four Suspended Vice Presidents of U. A. W. Refuse to Appear at Trial; Declare They are Facing Violence

Detroit—(U)—Four suspended vice presidents of the United Automobile Workers notified the U. A. W. executive board today that they would not appear for the resumption of their trial because they had "unimpeachable information" that 150 men had been mobilized at the international offices to do violence to them.

The notification was contained in a letter signed by the four officers. It was handed to Paul E. Miley and Ellsworth Kramer, executive board members, at the office of Maurice Sugar, attorney for the defendants, Richard T. Frankenstein, Wyndham Mortimer, Walter N. Wells and Ed Hall. The trial, which has been in recess since July 29, was resumed today, without the defendants.

The U. A. W. headquarters were heavily guarded by men described by union officials as "loyal members." Officials said the precautions were intended to prevent any recurrence of disorder that marked the opening of the trial two weeks ago.

The letter from the suspended officers said the defendants were informed the purpose of the alleged mobilization at the international offices was "to forestall our furnishing proof that there is a conspiracy between Jay Lovestone and the affairs of the union."

It said "it is our understanding that we are to be brutally beaten and maimed, if not killed," and declared that the defendants would refuse to appear until they were given "positive assurance" of adequate protection.

The charges against the defendants range from allegations of conspiracy with communists to gain control of the U. A. W., to supplying information of union affairs to newspapers.

POLICE TRAP AND KILL YOUNG DESPERADO

Police Captains Jerry Watkins (left) and Ben Rogers are shown in Hot Springs, Ark., after they shot and killed Earl Young, 28, of Lebanon, Pa., a desperado wanted in four states for robbery, kidnapping, rape and murder. Young was trapped in a hotel room, and died in a hospital three hours after a gun battle. H. B. Fletcher, Little Rock, Ark., Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, said Young was wanted for the kidnap-murder of Betty Schindler, 17, near St. Charles, S. D., July 29; for kidnapping and attacking a young girl taken from Louisville, Ky., to French Lick, Ind., on July 32; and on other charges.

Racine Chief of Police Quits His Job Under Fire

Statement Says Publicity Would Make It Impossible to Retain Position

Racine—(U)—Grover C. Lutter, suspended as chief of police by Mayor Roy A. Spencer July 25, resigned today three days before a hearing scheduled on charges of malfeasance in office filed by the mayor.

Lutter's attorneys issued a statement which said in part: "Although I believe I could successfully meet those charges, it is inadvisable to air them at a public hearing. . . . The publicity attendant to such a hearing, and the personal antagonisms and animosities that must necessarily be brought into the open, would . . . make it impossible for me to function properly as chief."

The fire and police commission was to act today on Lutter's resignation.

During Lutter's absence from the city July 22, Mayor Spencer ordered gambling raids which brought 99 arrests and confiscation of an estimated $15,000 worth of gambling paraphernalia. The raid was followed by charges against Lutter, including sanction of gambling and conduct unbecoming an officer.

Spencer said Lutter's resignation "ends the case so far as I am concerned."

Ohio May be Taken Off Age Pension Fund List

Washington—(U)—The social security board announced today it would undertake an investigation to determine whether Ohio should be cut off the old age pension list because of the alleged political activities of Governor Martin L. Davey and H. J. Berroddin, chief of the state's division of aid for the aged.

The board said Davey and Berroddin had applied to pension recipients to vote for the governor because of his assistance in obtaining the pensions.

The board wanted the governor eight months ago it was said, against sending campaign letters to pension beneficiaries, but the board claimed, he enclosed such a letter in the checks sent them about two weeks ago.

Berroddin was accused of enclosing a similar letter recalling Davey's part in securing old age pension funds.

Canning Factory Owner Is Killed in Collision

Antigo—(U)—R. B. Johns, 63, owner of an Antigo canning factory, was killed last night in the collision of a truck in which he was riding and an automobile. E. J. Byrne of Antigo, driver of the automobile, and Francis Burke, operator of the truck, escaped serious injury.

Search All Night for Boy: He's Under Stove

Williamsport, Pa.—(U)—Richard Seale, 8, crawled from under the kitchen stove at dawn, yawning and was welcomed with open arms by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Seale. Volunteers had been searching all night for him.

Sheboygan County Priest Killed in Auto-Truck Crash

Sheboygan—(U)—The Rev. Raymond J. Kelly, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church at Cascade, Sheboygan county, was instantly killed in a head-on collision today on Highway 57, half a mile east of Adell.

Returning to Cascade from Milwaukee, on his forty-fifth birthday, Father Kelly's car collided with a truck driven by Margen Gruel of Green Bay.

Gruel told Sheriff Joseph Deppe and Coroner H. H. Heiden he believed Father Kelly fell asleep at the wheel, because when the vehicles were 200 feet apart the priest's car swerved to the left and Gruel drove his truck off the pavement but could not escape the collision.

Father Kelly was Catholic chaplain at Waupun state prison in 1928-29. He was born at Milwaukee Aug. 6, 1893. He served at St. John's cathedral and St. Veronica's in Milwaukee, and at Brandon, Wis.

Corrigan Hurt in Rush by Throngs

Flier Doesn't Let Chest Injury Keep Him From Celebrations

New York—(U)—Douglas Corrigan, fortune's darling in a comedy of error, wouldn't let a chest injury keep him today from joining more celebrations honoring his memorable flight to California by way of Ireland.

Mauled by adoring crowds, the irrepressible little Irishman was the chief casualty of the welcome parade staged for him yesterday—a tumultuous tribute during which 1,000,000 spectators showered their good wishes with ticker tape and torn telephone books.

Grimacing despite his hurt, the 120-pound flier agreed to step in on the Xmas extravaganza of his chest, but insisted he would cury on. He is scheduled to go to Peekskill, N. Y., during the day to inspect the 60th infantry and is to attend a banquet here tonight at the Hotel Astor.

Corrigan made no mention of his injury, but it was noted his side was rigidly taped when he returned to his hotel after a subsequent reception in Brooklyn. Afterward he attended a quiet dinner and heard himself acclaimed by throngs at Lexington and Yankee stadiums before he went to bed.

Because it was 11:20-20 minutes past his bedtime—he yawned a little, weary from a day spent in exchanging greetings with innumerable celebrities and staunchly repeating his story that his rare flight was the result of "an unfortunate error" in navigation.

Special Prosecutor at Waukesha Quits Position

Waukesha, Wis.—(U)—William J. McCauley of Milwaukee, resigned today as special prosecutor of Waukesha county, a position to which he was appointed at the beginning of the Waukesha vice crusade.

McCauley, in a letter to Circuit Judge C. M. Davidson, said his campaign for district attorney of Milwaukee county and his private practice necessitated giving up the Waukesha post.

Approximately 40 indictments were returned by a grand jury in the Waukesha cleanup about 30 persons have been convicted.

Severe Test of New Deal Leadership Is Involved

EX-SHERIFF SLAIN

Shooting Thursday Night Adds to Tension in State

Louisville, Ky.—(U)—With "Xs" in small squares on ballots, Kentucky Democrats today wrote the answer to the torrid United States senatorial nomination primary campaign, already marked by bloodshed.

The eyes of the nation were centered on the Bluegrass State as it awaited the outcome of the battle between Senator Alben W. Barkley and Governor B. Chandler that involves a severe test of New Deal leadership.

Barkley, supported by President Roosevelt, is the senate majority leader and has been mentioned as presidential timber in 1940.

Tabulators begin their work immediately after the polls close at 4 p. m. (local time) and continue until midnight. Counting then is halted until Monday morning.

The long, heated Barkley-Chandler campaign was heightened by a shooting Thursday night in Jackson, in "bloody Breathitt" county.

Former Sheriff Slain
Former Sheriff Lee Combs was killed and his brother, Lewis Combs, county campaign chairman for Chandler, and Sheriff Walter Deaton, were wounded.

The shots were fired on the stairway leading to Barkley's county headquarters.

Five men are sought on charges in connection with the shooting, which followed a meeting of precinct committeemen.

Lewis Combs said in an interview from his hospital bed in Lexington that the meeting had been called to oust his father, S. L. Combs as county Democratic chairman.

Sheriff Deaton said county Judge Pearl Campbell, uncle of the Combs brothers, had called him to the building housing Barkley headquarters because the judge feared trouble.

Leadership to Shift
The Democratic party's senate leadership would shift to other shoulders in event of Barkley's defeat and would mark the passing from the Washington scene of a veteran of more than a quarter-century of service for his state in national affairs.

Early last month President Roosevelt made a one-day stump tour across Kentucky in interest of Barkley's candidacy.

The heated senate campaign completely overshadowed the Republican primary contests. John P. Haswell, backed by the state Republican organization, was opposed for the senate nomination by four others, Andrew O. Ritchie, G. Tom Hawkins, Roscoe C. Douglas and Elmer C. Roberts.

All nine of the state's representatives in the national house also are up for re-nomination. Three of the eight Democrats, Noble J. Gregory of the First district, Beverly M. Vincent of the Second and Edward W. Creal of the Fourth, have no opposition. The Lone Republican representative, John M. Robison of the Ninth, has two opponents.

Court Acts to Preserve Estate

Names 3 Special Administrators for Property Left by Mrs. Sidley

Racine—(U)—County Judge J. Alban Simpson yesterday appointed three special administrators for the estate of Mrs. Maybelle Herlick Sidley, matriarch milk heiress.

Administrators named were William Herlick Sidley, son of the dead woman and one of the principal heirs under her will; John D. Rowland, county public administrator, and Bernard F. Naugle, an official of the Herlick Malted Milk company.

Judge Simpson, who acted on request of Sidley, announced from the bench the administrators should make an inventory of Mrs. Sidley's Racine county holdings and present it to the court.

Attorneys in the case said the court action, while not an outright move to impound the property, would serve to preserve the estate. There was no announcement whether Sidley's petition was a ploy to a contest of the will. No written objection to its admission to probate has been filed, a member of his counsel said, and if such action is taken it will not be until after Sidley's uncle, Attorney W. P. Sidley of Chicago returns from a vacation in Wyoming, the latter part of this month.

Under terms of the will, Sidley was to receive one-third of the estate. W. Perkins Bull, Toronto lawyer in whose home Mrs. Sidley died July 6, was to receive one-third, and the residue, after numerous specific bequests, was to go to St. John's Military academy of Delafield, Wis. The estate has been estimated at more than $2,300,000.

Hopkins Trying to Speed Up Economic System in South

Confers With State and Regional WPA Directors to Map Program

Memphis, Tenn.—Harry Hopkins arranged conferences today with southern state and regional WPA directors to lay before them the initial step in President Roosevelt's "frontal attack" designed to eradicate causes retarding the south's economic development.

The work program administrator said the first move would be inauguration of a between-seasons employment program for needy farmers to "provide supplementary income to workers at a period when income from private sources would be at its lowest ebb."

He said he had given administrators authority to "add a total of 200,000 persons to the WPA rolls pending the time when labor would be needed for picking cotton."

Lists Chief Needs
In a nation-wide broadcast from Memphis last night, Hopkins listed the south's greatest needs as:
1. Increased farm income.
2. Equalized educational and health opportunities.
3. Cheaper power to attract industry.

Lauding the south's economic structure as a "saga of human accomplishment," he described its immediate problem as a "lack of purchasing power."

In Washington last night, Representative White (R-Ohio) referred to Hopkins' trip south as a journey to "knock down a straw man" created by "vicious economic meddling by New Deal theorists."

Asserting that the south's relief problem developed as a result of the New Deal's agricultural program, White said: "It is to this picture of the New Deal economic execution that Harry Hopkins now hires himself to play the role of savior."

Manhattan and Brooklyn joined in feting the lad who spanned the ocean in a $900 "crate." Potato Growers Are Expected to Put Ban on Culls

Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota Farmers to Vote Aug. 19 to 24

Washington.—(U)—The agricultural adjustment administration expressed confidence today Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota late potato growers would approve again a proposal to keep cull tubers off the market.

Referenda will be held in the three states from Aug. 19 to 24, inclusive, and results will be tabulated here. Twelve other late potato growing states will participate in similar referenda.

An AAA representative estimated the program urged by the department would affect from 5 to 15 per cent of the crop. The AAA will be represented in the three states by A. E. Mercker, senior marketing specialist, during the balloting.

If the program is to go into effect, two-thirds of the growers must vote for it, if an insufficient number of landers on shippers agree to the program, it may be placed in effect by an order of the secretary of agriculture with approval of the president.

Affects Culls
The department explained handlers and shippers may vote by volume, 50 per cent of them agreeing to cut elimination to put the program into effect without presidential approval.

The program would affect only cull potatoes shipped in interstate commerce. There would be no restrictions on culls shipped within the state of origin.

Administration of the program would be by area committees composed of handlers and growers. Certified seed potatoes would be exempt from shipping restrictions. Flexibility of cull regulations, the AAA said, was to permit closer control of the crop in case of extraordinary production.

Favored in Wisconsin
The AAA representative said reports from Wisconsin indicated producers there were overwhelmingly in favor of the program. A similar plan was in effect last year, but this year's proposal is for a four-year agreement which could be terminated at the end of any year by the secretary.

Cull potatoes are those under one and a half inches in diameter or with defects. The proposed program would set up a joint federal-state inspection system, the AAA said, to prevent low quality potatoes from flooding the market and pushing prices down.

Mexican Attitude Discouraging to Future Investors

Seizure of Private Property Stirs Up International Friction

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington.—Few things that have happened in Latin America in the last few years could be described as more disappointing than the attitude of the Mexican government toward the subject of confiscation of private property.

The latest note from the Cardenas government raises a question of transcendent importance, not merely in the "good neighbor" policy which the United States government has done so much to cultivate, but in the problem of exporting American capital to help build trade and commerce.

Certainly, the Mexican viewpoint is discouraging to future investors. Indeed, it may start a wave of liquidation which will tend to ruin Mexico's economic opportunity.

And, when economic chaos comes, disaffected elements usually find fertile soil for revolt.

What the Mexican government has overlooked is that the theory of confiscation without proper payment simply restores jungle law—the might makes right concept which diplomacy throughout the last few generations has been struggling to erase.

Such progress has been made that, in recent years, the principle of forbidding the use of force to collect international debts has been widely accepted throughout Latin America.

Complications
But, when confiscation takes arbitrary form and sovereignty is pushed to arbitrary extremes, international law being brushed aside and domestic judgment being given precedence, then strange complications are bound to ensue.

Thus, the oil wells may remain in possession of the Mexican government, but this does not mean that the rest of the world will stand by and purchase the confiscated oil.

For foreign governments, the oil becomes stolen property, and, as such, the courts of various countries where the oil is landed are bound to be asked to impound the shipments till the cases are adjudicated.

It seems unlikely that even the dictator countries in Europe, which might be disposed to accept Mexican oil, will care to risk for an issue with the British government.

It is regrettable, but nevertheless true, that the aggressiveness of British policy alone is responsible for what little attention the Mexicans have given to the protests thus far made.

The American government is in an embarrassing position, as the Mexican note half-satirically points out. The Mexican foreign secretary naively remarks that the American government, meaning the New Deal, wouldn't allow a little matter of confiscation to interrupt its "reforms."

Unfortunately, that is true. Confiscation of gold was justified as an emergency, and equal payment in the old gold value was not made to foreign governments or to American citizens.

Likewise, the New Deal has instituted other reforms which border on confiscation, and naturally the Mexicans look closely at the acts of the Roosevelt administration and expect sympathetic treatment.

An administration which confiscates utility properties and makes no arrangement to compensate the losers who have invested their dollars is not likely to be taken seriously below the Rio Grande when it asks for payment for oil wells confiscated.

Future Of Controversy
The future of the controversy lies in the foreboding which may be exhibited by Secretary Hull in dealing with the latest Mexican note.

Mr. Hull is regarded throughout the world as a statesman of first rank, and, in Latin America, his prestige is of unprecedented importance. But there are conservatives in Latin-American countries who see radicalism and socialism on the horizon.

If a forceful word is not spoken now against confiscation, whether in the domestic or international sense, the way is opened to a dislocation of the whole economic system in Latin-American countries.

State's Record of Safety on Highways Slips During July

July was the first month since November, 1937, in which Wisconsin failed to make a substantial reduction in automobile fatalities, the state highway commission reported today.

Although final figures will not be available for two weeks, records indicate last month had 65 fatalities, compared with 66 in July of 1937.

"Bloody August" was the title given to this month last year, when 111 persons met death in traffic accidents in Wisconsin. It was the worst month in all state motoring history.

With "Bloody August" coming right after a July in which the 1937 fatality mark was equaled, state safety workers fear that Wisconsin's good record for 1938 may start slipping.

The record now stands at 125 lives saved over the first seven months of 1937.

Pegler's Taken on His Offer to Design Statue

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York—Your correspondent has been taken up on his offer to sculpt a better statue of St. Francis of Assisi than that with which it is proposed to deface Christmas Tree hill in San Francisco or forfeit $100 toward a fund to prevent the erection of Benjamin Bufano's conventionalized drain pipe on one of the most majestic natural sites in urban America. Mr. Bufano, the author of the pipe design, wires that he has posted $100 with the San Francisco Press club, the walls of which, adorned as they are with some of Mr. Rube Goldberg's early originals, should put the man to the blush. Your correspondent is sending $100 immediately to the barman of the same institution, and the contest is on, although certain minor particulars remain to be adjusted.

For one, it was not necessary for Mr. Bufano to post $100. The proposition was not a wager but a public spirited offer to start a fund to prevent an aesthetic atrocity. This was plainly stated, but it seems only natural that a man who could spend a long time studying the life, times, work and appearance of St. Francis on his home grounds in Assisi and come up with a figure of a man emerging from a culvert could miss the point. However, his $100 should be welcome, because the WPA seems to be financing the conspiracy against San Francisco's skyline, and it is well within the rules of civilized warfare to fire captured ammunition at the enemy.

Mr. Bufano deviates in a more serious particular, however, when he proposes that the loser's tax be forfeited to an outing fund for San Francisco orphans—a worthy charity, to be sure, but no more beneficial in the long run than the original purpose. Outings are but momentary, and it should be considered that unless this fund prospers and the purpose be achieved, unborn generations of San Francisco children will return from outings in the hills and on the sea feverish, fretful and colicky from glimpsing a stack 180 feet high affronting St. Francis and suggesting dangerous misadventure. The children's imagination will play with fears of no interpretation. Some will see it as a holdup victim standing in a barrel, others as Zacchini, the circus performer who is fired from a cannon, still others as a man falling down a cistern. Bufano Promises to Send Mallet and Chisel

Mr. Bufano promised to send a sculptor's mallet and chisel, adding with a trace of something that might be unkindness that your correspondent probably needs no teaching in the use of the chisel. He is confused again. Your correspondent has some facility with the mallet, but it is not saying that those who work on the art projects of the WPA use the chisel as though it grew in their hands.

The disposition of the money can be arranged by a committee, and it seems best that your correspondent now give a general indication of the statue which he purposes to sculpt. It will have sandals on the feet, of course, and wings—if wings are not too hard to do. There will also be a rather large fish, representing the sea, a wheat sheaf for agriculture, a geared wheel for industry, a sledge hammer for labor, a compass and a retort for science, a car wheel for transportation, a propeller for the merchant marine, a scythe or hourglass, or perhaps just a dollar watch, for the time element, a cornucopia for the Old Deal and a life preserver for the United States coast guard. Further details will occur as the work progresses, but this will provide a rough idea.

It would be unfair to place a time limit on your correspondent, who has never had a lesson in his life and hasn't even yet found a suitable rock. Would six weeks be a reasonable period, considering that it took Mr. Bufano several years to design a drain pipe? There is only one fear in this competition. It seems impossible, but your correspondent might turn out a design more awful than Mr. Bufano's, and in that case the same jury might construe it as high art and place it on Christmas Tree hill.

Fuels, South Side C.Y.O. Squad Tie In League Battle

South Siders Knot Count At 12 All as Darkness Ends Contest

City League

|-------------------|-------|
| Kaukauna Klub | W. L. |
| Mankosky Fuels | 3 1 |
| Kaukauna's Tavern | 2 1 |
| South C. Y. O. | 2 1 |
| Athletics | 2 2 |
| North C. Y. O. | 0 5 |

Kaukauna—In the wildest contest of the season the Mankosky Fuels and South C. Y. O. softball teams battled to a 12 to 12 tie last night, with darkness preventing completion of the tilt. The south siders, trailing 12 to 10 in the last of the seventh, combined two walks, an error and one hit to tie the score.

The C. Y. O. team knocked out 11 hits off the flinging of Sherman Powers, including four 2-base hits, while the Fuels combed the offerings of Ed Jaki for 14 numbers in their collection four doubles, a triple and a home run. Powers struck out eight, and Jaki sent six down by the strikeout route.

6 Runs in First
The Fuels started out to make a walkway of things, cracking four hits good for six runs in the first inning. Kiffe and Vic Gerhartz had doubles and Jim Mankosky and Abe Goldin singles. Bob Netterov and Bob Van Drasek walked in front of these bingles, and all six tallied before the frame was over. After picking up acies in the third, fourth and fifth, the Fuels apparently sewed things up in the first of the seventh with three more. In that inning Vic Gerhartz led off with his fourth hit of the game, a long home run. He had previously collected two doubles and a triple, and his slugging represents the tops for anyone in city league play this year. Roberts was safe on an error.

Goldin singled and both came home on Cotten's two bagger.

The south siders duplicated the Fuels' 6-run inning in the second. Doubles by Grissman and Andrejeski, together with Meyers and Meiners' singles and walks to Saunders and Gloudemans' resulted in all six eventually scoring. In the last three innings the C. Y. O. players made two runs in each, their last two tying the score at 12-12, depriving the Fuels of an opportunity to go into a tie for first place as they would had if they had won.

Merchants Operating Check on Solicitations

Kaukauna—The fund solicitation program of the Kaukauna Adancement association has been well received by merchants and public and is now functioning smoothly, according to Joseph T. Sadlier, secretary. Designed to halt unauthorized solicitation of merchants and public, the plan demands that outside promoters get a project approval card from the association's committee before being allowed to solicit.

During the last six months there were 27 requests for solicitation cards. Eight of the persons requesting cards made no further efforts after receiving the association's request for information.

Fire projects have been taken up by the group for the first half of the year. These were the handling of the Good Friday closing of business places; sending of flowers to business places which made improvements and to business men who died; cooperating with the Veteran of Foreign Wars in staging the June water regatta here; sending information to travel bureaus advertising Kaukauna and publishing stories on the Grignon home in the Wisconsin Motor News.

Projects listed for the association to work on were street decorations for holidays; community chest drives; requests by merchants that the group take over the installment payment of accounts; developing a retail division to handle all retail problems and a strong membership campaign.

Test Capacity of Sewage Plant for Garbage Disposal

Experiment to Determine If City-Wide Program Is Feasible

Kaukauna — A test of the capacity and powers of the new municipal sewage disposal plant to take care of garbage was scheduled to be run off today, according to Edward Steidl, president of the board of public works. A test was slated for last Saturday, but postponed because the sewage plant engineer was away on his vacation. Garbage will be collected from the business districts and processed, the experiment's end being to see if a city-wide garbage disposal program might not be feasible.

About a month ago Dr. C. D. Boyd, city health officer, arranged before the common council and asked if some action might not be taken to facilitate garbage disposal.

Reports Complaints
Some residents now put their waste in oil barrels and burn it. Boyd reported, and added that complaints of such fires have been received. "Hardly a day passes that someone doesn't make a protest," the health officer said.

Alderman T. L. Seagelick, chairman of the sewer committee, said that he didn't think the sewage plant could handle the city's garbage in the summer, but Alderman Oscar Alzer suggested it be given a try.

Alzer's proposal was to collect garbage from one ward or one part of the city and treat it at the plant. "This is the only way we can find out what the possibilities are," he said. If things worked out a municipal system could be started, and charges might be made to cover any necessary expenses. The entire matter was referred to the board of public works, and it is under the board's direction that the test is being run off today.

Electric Signal Being Installed at Crossing

Manawa—Installation of a flashing light, rotating disc, highway crossing signal at the Green Bay and Western railroad crossing on state trunk highway 22 in Manawa was begun this week by a crew of railway workmen. Two weeks will be required to complete the job.

This crossing, one of the most dangerous on the line, has been the scene of a number of accidents, one of which, that of J. D. Rouse, New London, proved fatal.

The signal will be constructed according to federal regulations which are standard throughout the nation. Below the flashing lights will be a banner with the single word "Stop."

The signal will be placed towards the highway when trains are approaching and away when the track is open.

Trains entering the circuit at a distance of 1,500 feet in either direction will start the signal flashing. The fastest trains on the G. B. and W. road, traveling at the rate of about 50 miles per hour, will require 20 seconds from the time they hit the circuit until they reach the crossing.

Freight trains, strangely enough, are the fastest on the G. B. and W. road and, according to officials, they travel more rapidly just about the time they hit the Manawa crossing than they do any other place along the line, principally because of the grade on either side.

Signal lights flash at the rate of 35 times per minute. The local Carol Jean and Betty Lou, were supper guests at the Matt Schmutt home Wednesday.

Voters Club Will Ask School Board To Haul Students

South Side Residents Want Transportation for Pupils to New School

Members of the South Side Voters' club will ask the board of education to furnish transportation for students living in the Fourth ward and attending the new senior high school at a meeting of the board at 7:30 Tuesday evening at Lincoln school.

About 100 taxpayers attended a meeting of the Voters' club last night at McKinley school, unanimously voted to approach the school board to solve the problem, and named a committee to represent the club.

A. C. Rule was named chairman of the committee which includes Cyril Wassenberg, Elmer Schabo, Frederick Krause and Michael Kusler.

A state law stipulates that cities must furnish transportation for students, upon request, who live more than four miles away from school. Most students who did not drive cars to school last year, rode bicycles.

Everything is being done by the school board and the city to make the new building more accessible to students living in all sections of the city. Sidewalks have been installed all along Badger avenue where they were not in place and trunk line walks are being built in the vicinity of the school. Walks on the school property will lead to all streets abutting the land.

A spacious bicycle court is being built at the rear of the structure between the academic and shop sections.

California Walton League Wants Movie Filmed by Swanson

R. L. Swanson, president of the Appleton chapter of the Isaac Walton league, this week received a letter from the secretary of the Anaheim, Calif., chapter asking for the motion picture, made by Swanson, covering the highlights in the Junior Walton league program in Appleton.

The picture was taken here last year and is circulated through the Bureau of Visual Education, University of Wisconsin. It has been shown in several states in the middle west and has aided many Isaac Walton league chapters and public school systems in developing junior league programs and young sportsmen's movements.

The picture was made by Swanson with the cooperation of Frank Taylor, Wilson Junior High school, and William C. Pickett, Roosevelt Junior High school. Financial aid was given by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, Appleton Woman's club and the Isaac Walton league with the permission of the school board.

Weekend Will be Bright and Fair

Steady Sunshine and Blue Skies Today; Mercury At 86 at Noon

The month of August, evidently out to produce the summer's best weather, presented Appleton and vicinity with blue skies and sunshine today and the weatherman said it will be pleasant all weekend. The hot sun pushed the mercury steadily upward in the city this morning and at noon the thermometer of the Post-Crescent stood at 86, about the same as yesterday's maximum of 84.

Local thunder-showers are predicted in the extreme eastern and extreme southern portions of the state this afternoon or tonight, but probably will not occur here. Cool temperatures tonight will assure comfortable sleep.

The 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning the lowest mark in the city was 65, according to charts of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant. Rainfall during that period measured .07 of an inch.

Concord, O., and Omaha, Neb., for 100th anniversary of the nation's weather chart yesterday, both reported 104, Yellowstone's best, as was its record reading in the land.

120-FOOT CONCRETE STACK FALLS TO GROUND

You probably didn't know a thing about it, but one of the summer's most sensational scenes took place yesterday afternoon between E. Water street and the Fox river behind the Lawrence college campus when the 120-foot stack on the old Graef Manufacturing company boiler suddenly tipped over.

It wasn't an accident. Workmen had borrowed under the stack's base all morning long. They took out chunks of concrete with a pneumatic drill, inserting wooden blocks soaked with kerosene. Then they set fire to the blocks. It didn't work the first time, but it did the second, and the Post-Crescent photographer was waiting for the climax.

He caught it, as you can see in the top picture. The stack held together until it struck the boiler house foundations and the ground. When the dust cleared away, the lower picture was taken. The leveling of the stack was another step in the clearing of the Graef property to make way for college tennis courts. (Post-Crescent Photos)

It Is Said--

That there were about 150 spectators present yesterday when workmen brought down the 120-foot concrete smokestack on the old Graef Manufacturing boiler house at E. Water street just behind the Lawrence college campus. The street was blocked off and a motorcycle officer was on guard so that there was no danger of injury. It was a clean job, according to those who saw it. The stack fell just about exactly where it was supposed to.

That the appearance of Gargantua, The Great, 450-pound gorilla, with a circus here the other night, has started a lot of speculative talk among wags around town who like to use their imaginations on such topics.

Some have envisioned Gargantua playing football for the Packers. On defense, for example, reaching over the line to pluck an earnest halfback head on an end run.

What would you do if you met him coming down the street? The wags ask. Run, of course, most answered. One fellow sat back thoughtfully and retorted: "I'd take my shirt off and start eating beetles."

The unusual number of patrons at Appleton Public library Friday was attributed by one of the librarians to the fact that it was the fifth of the month and many people were downtown paying bills. They probably decided to stock up on reading matter or return those overdue books as long as they had to make the trip anyway.

County Candidates Have Until Tuesday To File for Primary

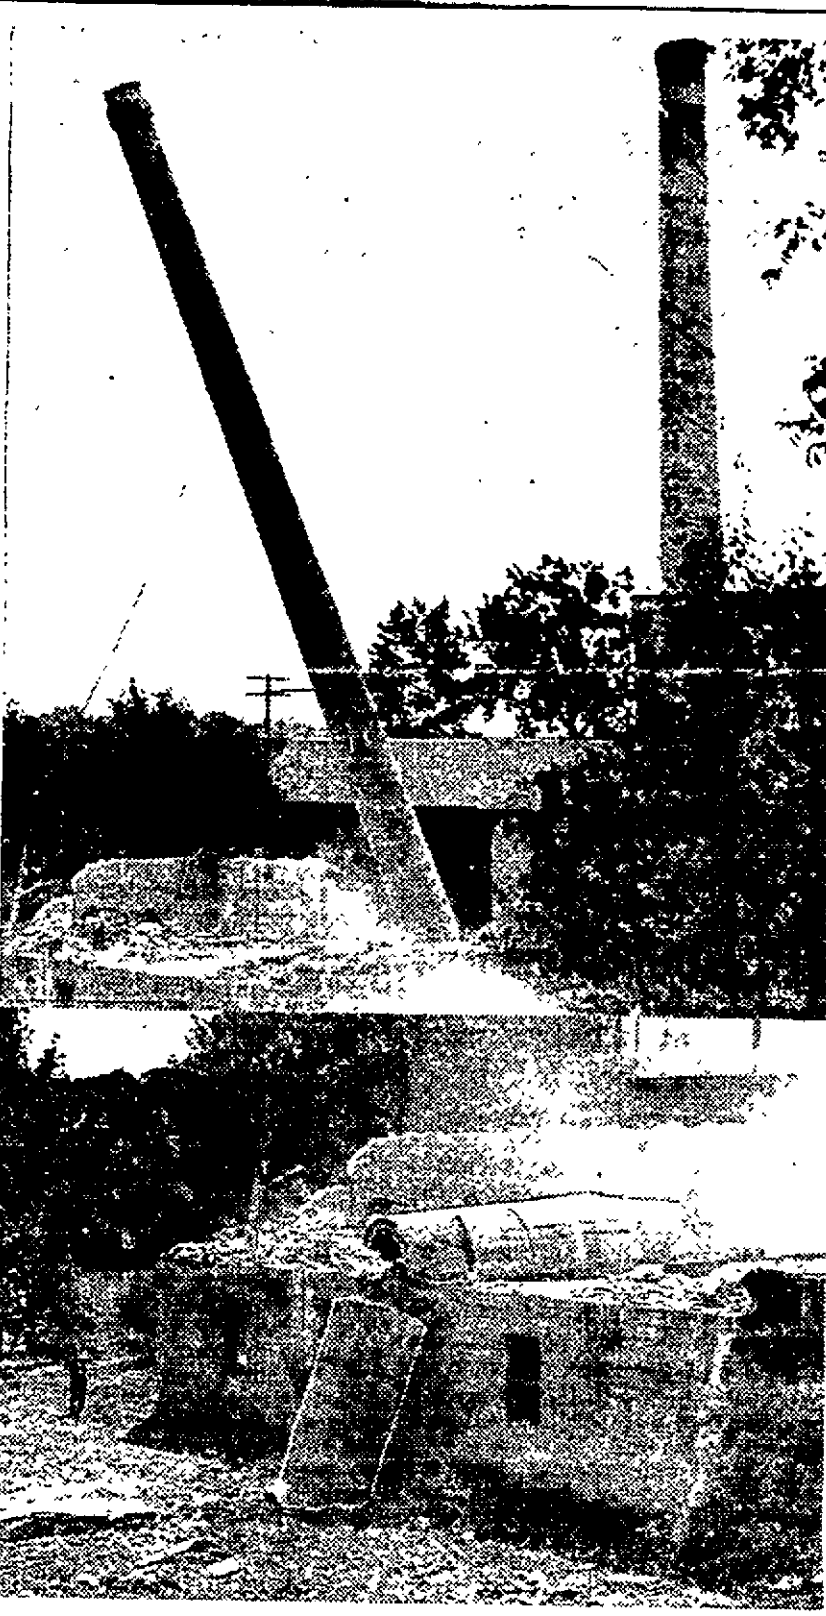

William Robert Kaukauna, has 15 minutes to file his nomination papers for reelection to the Democratic ticket as assemblyman from the Second district in the county. Grasshopper Poison Is Available at Harrison

A. J. McMahon, Calumet county agent, said today that grasshopper poison will be available for all farmers who want it at the town shed in the town of Harrison beginning Monday.

Young grasshoppers in numbers large enough to be serious are appearing in that vicinity, the county agent said. The poison will be mixed by WPA workmen and is a mixture of sawdust, whey and sodium arsenite.

Mrs. Edwin Loxley of Marcy's Book shop will leave early next week for a buying and vacation trip to Chicago.

Church Must Help Check Delinquency, Fr. Head Says

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The church has a very definite and serious obligation in the prevention of delinquency, according to Father Henry Head of the Catholic Family Welfare bureau of the Green Bay diocesan Apostolate.

Father Head discusses the social responsibility of the church in a paper published by the board of control in its monthly bulletin today.

The church, according to the Green Bay cleric, is vitally concerned about human conduct and social relationship. "However," he adds, it is a dogmatic teaching of the church that man is endowed with a free will—nevertheless it is this very faculty which if not used properly is very dangerous. Hence early moral training and proper environment are essential if wholesome character is to be developed. It is the solemn duty of the church to administer

Warner Oland, 57, Charlie Chan of Movies, Is Dead

Sixty-five per cent of the people of the United States have no church affiliation, he pointed out. "Consequently the majority of our youth are not receiving the valuable training in spiritual progress that the churches alone can give."

Warner Oland, 57, Charlie Chan of Movies, Is Dead

Oland played villainous Chinese roles in "Old Francisco," "Wheel of Chance" and "The Mysterious Mr. Fu Manchu" before he got the lead role in the first Charlie Chan picture. The Chan pictures, incidentally, always were money-makers.

Oland never cared much for Hollywood, and stayed there only while he was making pictures. He owned a small farm in Connecticut and about 7,000 acres, comprising the southern end of Palmetto de la Virgen, off the coast of Mazatlan, Mexico. This property has about 10 miles of coastline.

State's General Relief Down 4.6 Per Cent in June

Grants Decline 1.5 Per Cent; Number on Works Projects Higher

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—A 4.6 per cent decline in the number of general relief cases during June was reported today by the state public welfare department, together with figures showing that total relief grants declined only 1.5 per cent, from $831,378 in May to $818,582.

A considerable amount of the decline, the department pointed out, was due to the fact that during the same period the number of persons employed on federal works projects in the state rose 1.5 per cent, from 105,780 to 107,360, as a result of increases in WPA quotas.

The department said that during June 159,600 Wisconsin citizens, or 5.2 per cent of the state's current population, were included among those receiving relief. In addition the 107,360 cases on federal works projects represent 402,000 persons, or 13.1 per cent of the state's population. Thus about 18 per cent of the people in Wisconsin were dependent on general or federal relief during June.

Wisconsin's general relief load was 26.6 per cent and the combined relief and federal works program load 39.8 per cent larger at midsummer this year than at a corresponding period a year ago, the department said.

Thirty-five per cent of the general relief cases in Wisconsin contain no employable member. During June, despite the general state decline, relief case load increased in 24 of the state's 71 counties.

Grants to relief cases in the counties in the northeastern Wisconsin area during June, and the percentage of change in grants, together with the relief loads, are given in the following tabulation prepared by the state welfare office:

| County | Cases | Grants | Change |
|------------|-------|----------|--------|
| Brown | 75 | $14,707 | + 0.1 |
| Outagamie | 553 | 12,015 | +13.0 |
| Manitowish | 612 | 12,941 | +14.8 |
| Waushara | 297 | 5,632 | +27.4 |
| Calumet | 68 | 1,673 | + 0.4 |

Clapp Testifies In TVA Inquiry

Former Lawrence Staff Member Is Personnel Director of Project

Gordon R. Clapp, former member of the Lawrence college staff and now director of personnel of the Tennessee Valley authority, testified yesterday before the congressional committee at Knoxville, Tenn., as a prelude to an inquiry next week to determine whether some departments are overstaffed with experts at good salaries.

Clapp denied charges that the TVA has discriminated against Negroes in speaking on the question of how the 12,719 employees obtained their jobs. Clapp said that the policy is to employ approximately the same proportion of Negroes as there is in the population of the valley. He said 10 per cent of the watershed population is colored and that 11 per cent of the TVA employees are Negroes. Representatives of the Negro organizations will appear before the committee next week.

In the five years that Clapp, 33, has been with the authority, his salary jumped from $3,200 to $8,000. His first position was that of assistant to the director of personnel.

Robert W. Leonardson, 32, a 1928 graduate of Lawrence college, was killed this morning when he fell between two coaches of a moving train at Wilmette, a suburb of Chicago, according to the Associated Press.

He stopped en route to this office in Chicago at the Wilmette police station this morning to arrange for protection for his home during his vacation, which was to start at noon.

MEXICO IS TOO BUSY

Mexico has advised our government that she rejects arbitration of American claims for the ten millions of farm lands of which hundreds of American owners were divested in the last ten years.

Mexico says the door is still open for discussion. That statement has some of the glamor of great chancelleries seeking an honest means of finding a just and peaceful solution of difficult problems, but with Mexico it is futile and meaningless.

Mexico will not arbitrate because a bandit never arbitrates. Mexico started out to purloin these lands with the set purpose of never paying a nickel. But, in order to allay protest she declared in all the magnificence of a mighty senor who worshipped at the feet of the blindfolded goddess that she would not only pay but pay fully and generously. Then she went about her business and gave the matter no further attention. Americans are patient enough but some of those who had been robbed made protest to Mexico years ago. They received a suave and smiling answer: yes, yes, but we are too busy at the moment.

America is lame enough in its representative at Mexico City, one Josephus Daniels, a muddling relic of the Bryan days. At least when we had a great man at Mexico City, Dwight W. Morrow, our relations went along as smoothly as a babbling brook finds its course to the river, and no one robbed us either.

Incompetent as Mr. Daniels is, there must be no sidestepping the fact that full responsibility belongs to just one man, and that the traveling resident of the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt became enamored of some Reds and thought he could get along swimmingly with those villains who commercialize the destruction of religions. That gave the real impetus to the banditry. Up to that time it had been a stealthy affair but after the announcement of the Neighborhood Policy the Mexican leaders threw their masks into the gutter and started cheering for our president.

They knew the game and the stakes even if he didn't.

THE HEIGHT OF BONAPARTE
Napoleon is chortling out there in one of those crevices beyond the Styx. For the Little Corporal was the vainest of men and fearfully particular about the way his game might ricochet down the mountains of the future.

Added to the fact that no ordinary house will hold all the books written about this pompous man who spilled rivers of blood for the sake of glory comes now the startling fact worried out of pyramids of material that there is no precise data on Napoleon's height.

Was he therefore 5 feet 3, a figure arbitrarily set up by many historians, or 5 feet 5, the necessary height to comfortably use the peep-holes which he had cut in the walls at St. Helena in order to observe the movements of his English guards?

An immaterial question, you say, after all these generations? Not by any means. A most revealing and substantial interrogatory indeed.

For upon the answer depends the correct weighing of Napoleon's astuteness in handling the multitude, and gives insight into the bevy nature of that multitude and how readily smart fellows may handle the crowd so long as they have a touch of the stage magician in them.

If Napoleon were 5 feet 5 he purposely made himself appear much smaller by reversing the trait of little men who so constantly employ high heels and short comrades to give them stature. Napoleon wore no heels, insisting on the flattest shoes, and did his pacing up and down the lines of the Old Guard, a proud military formation, whose soldiers averaged about 6 feet 2.

That was the smartest showmanship in the world. Denied by nature the advantages of giantism Napoleon craftily and correctly figured that the smaller he made himself in height the more of a hero he would become and the mightier his exploits would appear in the eyes of those who wanted to idolize him.

Let historians quarrel as they please about Napoleon's downfall at Waterloo. It may be, as one has said, "that God became bored" with his super-earthly egotism, and others may line up with Victor Hugo who concluded that the Corsican had become sufficiently great "to embarrass God" and hence, the sunken road on that Belgian battlefield.

But the first point of interest is how Napoleon kept his hold on the French people, who adored him to the end, and the trick he played about his stature and his many other peacock mannerisms have a part in explaining that.

Of course there is also the fact that he was a great liberal.

HOWL AND YOWL

Mr. Pegler was shocked because a Texas congressman who received over 3 million dollars from the federal treasury a few months before the recent primary so as to curry favor with the voters screamed to the high vaults of heaven at the few nicks his opponent, who defeated him, picked up to advertise his candidacy.

It is all a question of proportion. How much is a 100 per center true blue coat tail representative or senator worth to the Administration? If he gets down and grovels at the President's feet, if he swallows every manly word he uttered before being charmed by the magnificent one, and particularly if he is looked upon as a breakfast invitee then, forsooth, the nation must pay high to insure his election.

From a Texas congressman at $3,000,000 to a Kentucky senator at just 100 times that amount is rather a gorgeous flight. But, in truth, our supposedly rock-ribbed treasury has been nicked for $300,000,000 in the last few months in order that "Dear Alben" should not lose caste. Mr. Barkley is so expensive the President better address him hereafter as "Dear Mountain of Gold."

In order to beat a former newsboy the Kentucky solon obtained commitments for some gigantic expenditures and perhaps gigantic purposes. There was $133,000,000 for "flood control" projects and $112,000,000 for dams at Gilbertsville. Why mention postoffices that used to be called pork-barrel?

Use of public monies upon such widespread slush fund purposes is said by many supposedly good thinkers to be the most sinister and vicious development in the last generation of our history.

There isn't an American but knows it's wrong and realizes that Mr. Roosevelt is at the head of a great plunder-bund whose operations include the deadening of all sense of morality, decency or honesty upon the part of the ordinary run of citizen. Picture Mr. Barkley with this history, filling under oath his campaign expenditures at $2,180.

And picture, too, if you can the splendid upright men who in the last 30 years designed clean and far-reaching laws to limit the expenditure of money in campaigns and prevent the pollution of the nation.

A short time ago we noticed a particularly bitter attack in a magazine against Japan charging the extensive distribution of opium in conquered territory to deaden the sensibilities and thus the opposition of the miserable people who had come under her sway. But Japan was really one step ahead of the New Deal in morality.

It did not use its victim's opium.

THE WIFE OF WHAT-A-MAN
Senator Bilbo's divorce may change the complexion of that mighty and august body.

Mrs. Bilbo, recently legally and officially separated from her husband after living with him 34 years, says she is thinking of running against him in 1940.

That ought to be a good match. The people of Mississippi could then judge from what they heard delivered by the candidates on the public platform just which one was punished most by living with the other so long.

We regret that the property settlement, if any, was not made public. It should be of interest to know how the courts would come to value a man like Bilbo for alimony purposes.

The Senator surely had one of the sharpest noses in the country. He smelled pork even as Mr. Roosevelt was being elected in 1932 on a solemn platform promise to cut federal expenses 25 per cent. Bilbo wisely treated that sort of statement as a great big josh and was on hand early at Washington for a hand-out.

For two years the New Deal, recognizing the timbre of his voice, embalmed him for future use with a salary of $500 per month. Actually he was presented with a scissor and his job consisted of cutting newspaper clippings for one of our bureaus. So supported, and with his good will preserved, he stepped out in 1934 and won a senate seat after making 279 stump speeches which increased his weight 10 pounds, so happily did he gurgel in his element.

Far be it from the Post-Crescent's purpose to interfere with any private lawsuit but a man as sharp as Bilbo in getting his hand into the treasury is so likely to always have bank notes in his pocket that the court should have considered this trait in fixing his wife's check as of at least equal importance with his present bank account.

Dale Harrison's
In Old New York

Egg Harbor, N. J.—The Americanization of wine making has intrigued me ever since Repeal. People are forever saying that the best wines come from Europe, and that American wines aren't much good. I don't know anything about it, but I resent it on general principles.

Wine stewards in New York have told me that imported champagne and still wines are called for almost invariably in preference to domestic products. The stewards say there are several American wines which are as fine as the imports and which are not only cheaper but better than many wines that come over on boats. The American wine drinking public nevertheless persists in thinking that a foreign label denotes a superior product.

Down here at Egg Harbor, just a nice drive from Atlantic City, I believe I have found substantiation for my belief that American wine makers are earnestly striving to build a new and valuable industry in America if only the prejudice against domestic wines can be overcome.

Mostly it is sparkling wine that they make at Egg Harbor, for old man Renault, who founded the winery here long years ago, came to America from the Champagne district of France and was skilled in champagne making.

Paradoxically enough, his original purpose in coming to America was to sell French wines. Wars came, however, and trade was interrupted. It occurred to old man Renault that if he were to sell wine to Americans he must make American wine.

He traveled thousands of miles in search of climatic and soil conditions comparable to his native France. In California he found conditions favorable for the growing of grapes suitable for the "fortified" type of wines—sherrys, ports and muscatsels. For the champagne grape, he chose southern New Jersey. Vineyards were planted there, and today they provide the grapes that go to the making of a large part of the American champagne—only in America they can't really call it champagne. It is sparkling wine.

I know one "round-towner" in New York who drinks nothing but domestic wines, and he is considered an expert judge of fine food and fine wines. His reasons originally were patriotic. He developed a "buy American" complex, and this led to a genuine enthusiasm for American wines.

They tell me at the wineries that the manufacture of wines now has become such a scientific accurate process that it is rather silly to say Europeans can make better wine than Americans. If anything, the reverse would be true; for Americans are more modern in their methods and more scientific in their processes.

Some wines improve with age, and this gives an advantage to European wineries which have operated continuously for hundreds of years, whereas America's prohibition law put a crimp in domestic wine making.

Sparkling wines—champagne and sparkling burgundy—are not so dependent upon age. The vintage is the all important thing. A 1928 champagne is better, for example, than a 1921.

They tell me here that champagne is really not an expensive wine in itself. The higher cost is due to the constant handling required. A single bottle of champagne must be handled between fifty and sixty times over a period of years before it is ready for the market. Each bottle is given a quarter turn in its rack and then in a few days another quarter turn, and so on.

I was interested in the process of removing sediment from the bottled wine. By constant handling the sediment is finally deposited in the neck of the bottle. The wine is then chilled suddenly and frozen. This drives the sediment, frozen, out of the bottle, and in the form of a solid it is removed.

Finding bottles sturdy enough to withstand the terrific pressure of the natural gas that is formed in the champagne is a problem. Bottles previously used for champagne are bought from hotels and night clubs and are used for the new champagne. The reason is that these bottles have proved their strength. Corks are bought from Europe, and the best ones still come from Spain where even the war hasn't been able to stop their manufacture.

And, incidentally, each cork costs a nickel.

The vines hereabout are now heavy with the small grapes which in a few weeks will be red and ripe and ready for pressing. Then the wineries will go into 24-hour-a-day operation, and the huge vats, some made of choice California redwood and others of steel that is specially lined, will be filled.

Two Appleton boys, Horace Davis, Jr. and William Cahill, were to leave Wednesday for Camp Manitowish, Boulder Jet, for the four-two-weeks period of the state Y.M.C.A. camp. Among members of the camp staff were Elmer Ott, Kaukauna; Aloysius Gae, Appleton, and several Lawrence college men.

William K. Konrad, Jr., Saturday tendered his resignation as cashier of the Citizens' National bank to take effect on or before Sept. 1. Mr. Konrad had been appointed manager of the Appleton Industrial Loan and Mortgage company.

Orville Thompson, Appleton clarinetist, had been accepted by John Philip Sousa to take a position with his band. Mr. Thompson was to leave for New York City within a short time.

An Appleton firm, the Hoffman Construction company, submitted the lowest bid and had been awarded the contract for building the new high school at Freedom at a cost of $26,575.40.

Word from Oswald Rolfs, who was at Milwaukee with Oscar Kuntz to swim in the Marathon races that day, indicated that they swam over the 14 mile course upstream the previous morning. Kuntz made the course in 49 minutes and Rolfs in 56 minutes. Last year's race was won in 57 minutes. Some of the best swimmers in the United States were entered in the event.

Five weight hogs dropped 40 cents per 100 pounds that morning, which was a great turn considering the climb pork had taken during the previous month.

The Lawrence college board of trustees the previous day elected Mark Catlin as football coach for the approaching year.

A Bystander
In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER
Washington. While the wage-hour bill captured a large share of New Deal headlines, an almost forgotten act aiming at the same purpose moved quietly into a foremost position among legislation for higher wages and shorter hours.

The Walsh-Healey act, patch-quilted together late one winter night in an almost windowless capitol chamber, took final form about two years ago. Since then it has affected in some degree the wages and hours of an estimated 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 workers.

Its mechanics are comparatively simple. Any manufacturer or dealer wishing to sell goods to the government in quantities of $10,000 or more must agree to produce them with employees working a 40-hour week, without child or convict labor. Ultimately base wage standards also will be included.

The government once was, willy-nilly, a foremost patron of the so-called sweat-shop operators simply because by law it had to buy from the lowest bidder, and sweat-shop operators could under-bid more reputable producers.

Price Patterns
The 40-hour-week terms of the act went into effect at once. Wage minimums must be determined from time to time by the Secretary of Labor after arduous hearings.

The Department just now is engaged in determining a minimum wage to be required of steel companies supplying the government's needs. Sample difficulty:

United States Steel subsidiaries (Big Steel) in Pittsburgh now pay a minimum of 62 cents an hour for common labor. In Johnstown, Pa., about 70 miles away, Bethlehem Steel (one of Little Steel) has a 57 cent minimum. C.I.O. representatives stepped in to protest that if the Bethlehem rate is fixed as the "government minimum" it will undermine the wage agreement the union has with United States Steel.

However, Bethlehem officials protested that without this wage differential to offset certain disadvantages, Little Steel can not compete satisfactorily with Big Steel.

Seeking Expansion
Some employers have complained that Walsh-Healey terms have generated labor unrest within their plants by requiring higher pay for workmen operating on government contracts than is paid others working beside them on commercial jobs. Yet if the manufacturer raises the wages of all, he is handicapped in bidding on other commercial jobs.

There is almost no limit to the application of the act, since the government buys everything from shoelaces to battleships. It has applied at a half billion dollars of government buying already and the Department is seeking an expansion of its field which will multiply its effect.

U. S. Land Of Wonders
When Alvin J. Steinkopf joined the Associated Press foreign staff expected to see many strange customs. But not until he revisited America did he realize how strange are the customs and appliances of his native land. Now, back again following his tour in France, he was looking for publication, but we thought it was too good to pass up.

In Chicago we saw a mechanical cocktail shaker. This marvel of American ingenuity is a complicated set of chromium arms which grab the shaker and agitate the liquid out of it. The saving in wear and tear on the bartender is astonishing.

In a Randolph street shop we saw underwear with secret pockets in most extraordinary places. They're designed to foot pick-pockets.

We rode a streamlined train, the conductor of which said:

Give me a Model T any day. Now you seem to be in a hell of a hurry to get to Minneapolis, but what's the good of it? When you get there you'll just waste all the time you are saving on these nice seats.

In Wisconsin we saw my father, who said:

"What the world needs is a good grasshopper plague. If folks had something real to worry about they would stop bellyaching about trifles."

In Minnesota I met girl cousins who have stopped drinking because they are saving all their dimes for the slot machines.

In Milwaukee I asked about a salary advance where job it is to go down into clogged sewers to see what is impeding progress.

"He's in the sewer," I was told by the foreman, "but if you'll wait until he gets to the Walnut street junction, I'll telephone to him."

And so I learned that, in amazing America, it's impossible to escape telephones even in a sewer. I suppose my salty friend could talk to ships at sea from the Walnut street junction.

In Milwaukee, also, I visited a managing editor who said:

"One doesn't have to be crazy to hold my job—but it helps a lot if one is."

I detected a curious change in my uncles. Five years ago they were bragging about their expensive automobiles. Today, the greatest virtue is to have the cheapest car in the neighborhood, and to tone down life to the tempo of the five-cent cigar.

In St. Paul Aunt Laura said:

"The trouble with my daughters is that they never had to go barefooted. I guess that's why they waste their money on these silly sandals with not enough honest leather in 'em to cover the toes."

And to the Morrison hotel and its ingenious direction must be

Your Birthday

"LEO"
If August 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m., and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m.; from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m., until midnight.

The average person is likely to be in a decidedly talkative humor this day, and it is apt to get them into trouble. It might be well to remember that comparatively few people can keep a secret, or refrain from repeating gossip. The tongue and palate are apt to be very sensitive to taste, so housewives must be careful not to use a "heavy" hand in seasoning dishes. If you have any suggestions made to you that go against your grain, it might be advisable not to be talked into accepting them. Whatever you do, do with good grace, or do not undertake it at all. Affected mannerisms, coquetry or any kind of ostentatious display may provide material for much of the day's adverse criticism. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are ambitious to establish a home through early marriage, must keep in mind that the unvarnished truth is seldom relished and is generally either vehemently or secretly resented. Therefore be tactful in this respect.

If a woman and August 7 is your birthday, you may be inclined to ask a great many questions. Curb curiosity. For too much of it can make you unpopular. You might be very partial to food, and extremely fastidious regarding its quality. You have, most likely, a fine sense of your responsibility in discharging any duties you might have imposed upon you. You apparently can adapt yourself very readily to people or new places. In the course of time you ought to become very prosperous. Through interior decorating, writing, some line of theatrical work, teaching or selling, your financial problems may find a happy solution. Marriage is likely to be a panacea for most of your troubles.

The child born on August 7, has usually an adaptable nature. A love for companionship and sports, in all likelihood, will help make this youngster popular. Perseverance and backbone ought to enable it to accomplish whatever it sets out to do.

If a man and August 7 is your natal day, your indomitable will and bulldog courage, are never likely to fail you. As an explorer, author, actor, artist, musician, lawyer, engineer, doctor or sales agent, your efforts probably will be richly rewarded.

Personal Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

A WORD TO THE GLUTTON IS WASTED
(Mrs. O. M.)
I notice some columnists gracefully stand aside and let their readers serve as guest conductors when they, the columnists, want to go fishing. But, darn it all, I can't go fishing any more, for I hate to kill a fish just for sport. However, I am quietly training a few readers, so that if I ever am caught and sent to jail we can keep the health of the country up to snuff until I get out again. J. D. C. has something to tell you, gluttons. Anyway it will do you no harm to listen to his advice:

An English judge once decided that a man is drunk when, due to the influence of liquor, he cannot do properly what he is trying to do. Thus a man sitting in an easy chair might be sober as far as sitting in the chair were concerned, although unable to walk across the room without reeling. On the other hand, if a single cocktail impaired his judgment so that he tried to beat a train to a crossing, or sloshed his reaction time so that he failed to apply his brake promptly enough to prevent collision, the man would be regarded as intoxicated.

Reading this set me to thinking about gluttony. We commonly think of a glutton as one who is an enormous eater, one who stuffs himself. Following the reasoning of the English judge, would not one who, thru lack of self-control, eats any amount that is more than he can digest, or any viand which he cannot properly dispose of, qualify as a glutton?

Why not call things by their right names? When we have an attack of biliousness, acidity or dyspepsia, why not acknowledge that the probable cause is gluttony?

Why not recognize that the many alkalis, antacids and laxatives urged upon us thru every medium of communication today are addressed to and for the use of gluttons? (J. D. C.)

I have cluttered up a whole column many a time and said less than J. D. C. says in a night letter.

"Biliousness" or "bilious attacks" were more popular a generation ago than they are today. J. D. C. tells us the cause.

Hasty eating is a cause, as well as overeating. The old timers put in more time at their eating than we do today. But then, they hadn't discovered hyperacidity, colitis, acidosis, autointoxication and high blood pressure, so what was there to do to white away the time but sit and eat? The state of the liver was good for only a moment's casual conversation.

J. D. C. is right. Even as now gluttons would rather call it anything but gluttony.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Hay Fever
Hay fever sufferer declares that he finds succrase thru keeping his nostrils plugged with natural wool thru the ray dever season. His season comes on schedule and he knows when to plug up (J. D. W.)

Answer—Probably the pollen enters thru the nose in most cases, so this method sounds reasonable. By natural wool is meant wool as it comes from the sheep. It may be bought under the name of "lamb's wool" from druggists and surgical supply dealers.

Immunity
Why is it that after a person has once had typhoid they never get it again? What causes the immunity? Is it that some germs are left in the body to fight any that might invade the body again? How do

Bury Record For Future
Atlanta, Ga.—An adaptation of an ordinary penny peep show machine and a phonograph may give archeologists of 8113 A. D. a key to aid them in deciphering the civilization of this era.

The apparatus is an invention of T. K. Peters, a former news reel photographer and moving picture man. It will be placed in Oglethorpe university's "crypt of civilization," the founders of which expect it to be opened by the inhabitants of this planet 6,175 years hence.

Date for the opening of the crypt was chosen, Peters explained, because in 1926 A. D. the year the crypt was started, 8113 A. D. was the same distance in the future as the "first fixed date in history," 4241 B. C. Was in the past. The Egyptian calendar is supposed to date from that year.

The crypt, when completed, will be a large rust-proof steel vault of specially sealed micro-photographic records in metal of all phases of 20th century culture and knowledge. It also will contain models of typical machines, specimens of food and clothing and other objects.

Modern Rosetta Stone
While Peters, now a member of the Oglethorpe staff, and Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of the university, worked on the crypt, it occurred to them that English might not be spoken or known in 8113 A. D. They thought of the Rosetta Stone, an inscribed slab of basalt which Egyptians erected as a key to their language and civilization.

Although this stone, discovered in 1799 near Rosetta, Egypt, solved the mystery of Egyptian hieroglyphics, it required several decades to decipher. So Peters decided to remove any such difficulty for the finders of the Oglethorpe crypt by making a "talking Rosetta Stone."

You See And Hear
He obtained a mutoscope (peep show) and now is equipping it with rust-proof gears and bearings and connecting it up with a phonograph. When a crank is turned pictures of objects with their names in English will appear on non-corrosive metal sheets in the machine and a voice from a carefully preserved metal phonograph record will name the objects.

The device, called a "language interrogator," will be placed inside the strong steel door of the crypt. An arrow, picture symbols and simple numbers will indicate its purpose and operation.

Confusion Avoided
The first thing it will reproduce when the crank is turned will be the alphabet with each letter carefully pronounced. Then will come pictures, names and spoken symbols of thousands of common objects.

Peters explained that care is being taken to have the visual and spoken symbols of objects perfectly synchronized in the apparatus.

Western Picture On Now at Elite

Charles Starrett Plays
Leading Role in 'West Of Cheyenne'

Exciting action races across the screen of the Elite Theater, today and Sunday where Charles Starrett's newest punch-packed Columbia film, "West of Cheyenne," is the feature attraction. The authentic western mood is heightened by atmospheric music, and particularly by the three range numbers of the Sons of the Pioneers. All three, "Night Falls on the Prairies," "The Biscuit Blues," and "Over the Trail," should prove popular with lovers of this type of music. Mystery shrouds the story at the outset. Starrett rides into a riddle when he dismounts at Bar-W Ranch. Iris Meredith, daughter of a land agent, portrayed by Ed Le Saint, bars his way with a rifle. Starrett wins her confidence and learns that two former owners of the property have been mysteriously slain. He decides to stay around and join the fun. And there's plenty of fun, excitement and thrills in store for him.

Danielle Darrieux Film on at Appleton

Acclaimed by critics on both sides of the Atlantic for her superb artistry in both dramatic and comedy roles, Danielle Darrieux, radiant idol of the European screen, makes her American debut in "The Race of the Clouds," a comedy-romance which opens at the Appleton Theatre today for a 4-day showing. The picture was filmed by Universal studios at a cost of more than one million dollars under the able direction of Henry Koster. The story presents Miss Darrieux as the heroine of a whirlwind romance which involves both a handsome advertising man and a rich playboy. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., whose recent performances have added new brilliance to his famous name, is co-starred with Miss Darrieux. The top flight supporting cast is headed by two comedy favorites, Miss Helen Broderick and Mischa Auer, and features Louis Hayward.

The gay story is said to create a brand new formula for romantic adventure films. It was written by the famous scenario team of Bruce Manning and Felix Jackson, who did the screenplay for Deanna Durbin's recent hit, "The Sign of the Cross." The picture is said to be based on actual occurrences which vividly reveals the methods by which fake "psychics" delude their clients, and show the equipment they employ to do so.

Jimmy Durante Star Of Musical Comedy

That wild-eyed clown of clowns, Jimmy Durante, caroms madly through Columbia's new musical comedy, "Start Cheering," which will be shown at the Elite Theatre on Monday and Tuesday. Bargain days, and proves that this world isn't such a bad place after all. It can't be, with "Schnozzle" around. And with such excellent actors as Walter Connolly, Joan Perry, Charles Starrett, Gertrude Niesen, Raymond Walburn, The Three Stooges and Broderick Crawford are discovered in the same picture and in a merry mood, the result can be nothing worse than wonderful. "Start Cheering" scores in every quarter to win the musical championship.

Relief Agency Will Not Buy Sauerkraut, Manufacturer Told

Washington—U.S. Wisconsin sauerkraut and cabbage have failed so far to loosen the purse strings of the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation. A representative of the corporation said "no purchases of cabbage for kraut have been made in Wisconsin nor has the corporation ever purchased any cabbage for kraut." Senator F. Ryan Duffy (D-Wis.) had forwarded to the corporation two requests it step into the Wisconsin cabbage market. One was from John J. Wolf, Burlington, Wis., kraut manufacturer, and the other from Wallace E. Nield, Racine county supervisor. R. R. Taylor, chief of the general crops section, wrote Wolf he did not consider purchase of kraut advisable since farmers would "receive a greater percentage of return" if fresh cabbages were purchased by the corporation. He said the corporation would keep in close touch with Wisconsin's cabbage crop. Nield wrote Duffy "hundreds of acres" of cabbages raised for kraut would not be harvested unless the market strengthened or the corporation made cabbage purchases.

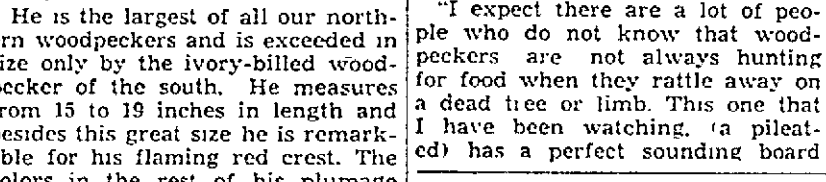

HARDY FAMILY IN NEW ADVENTURE

America's grandest family in their fourth and best love-and-laugh adventure, "Love Finds Andy Hardy," comes to the Rio theater Friday. Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, and Cecilia Parker are again featured, with Judy Garland a new addition to the "family." The co-feature on this "guaranteed entertainment" program is "Army Girl," jammed with thrills and romance. It boasts a huge cast including Madge Evans, Preston Foster, James Gleason, H. B. Warner, Neil Hamilton, Heather Angel, Billy Gilbert, and Ralph Morgan.

Pileated Woodpecker One Of State's Unusual Birds

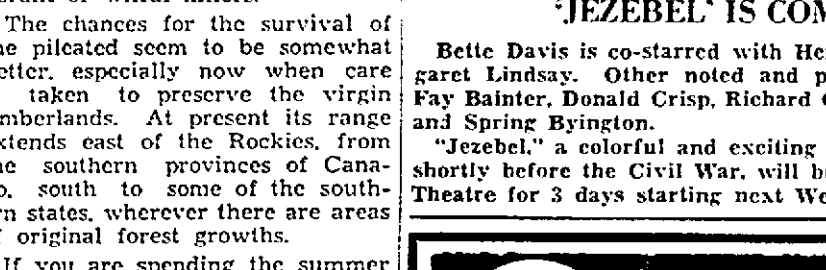

BY CLARA HUSSONG
Among the vacationists who are spending the summer in heavily-timbered areas in northern Wisconsin there are some who will have the good fortune to see one of the state's most unusual birds, the pileated woodpecker. Pioneers and early lumbermen, who found the bird in great numbers before the forests were cut down, gave him such interesting names as "log-cock," "cock-of-the-woods," and "pecker." He is the largest of all our northern woodpeckers and is exceeded in size only by the ivory-billed woodpecker of the south. He measures from 15 to 19 inches in length and besides this great size he is remarkable for his flaming red crest. The colors in the rest of his plumage are slate gray, black and white. Several weeks ago when I mentioned seeing this woodpecker at Camp Geokelaw, near Wabeno, I was asked by several readers of this column whether I was certain of my bird, they understood that it was almost extinct and could be found only in the cypress swamps of the south. Evidently these readers had confused the pileated with the ivory-billed woodpecker, a southern species whose numbers are becoming so small that an almost exact count can be taken each year of the surviving individuals. His Chances Improving Like the pileated, the ivory-billed was once common in the deep forests of the south but now so few are left that their chances for survival are considered very slim. When one or several are discovered in a new spot it is news to the whole country and usually these haunts of the birds are kept secret as a protection against ignorant or wilful killers. The chances for the survival of the pileated seem to be somewhat better, especially now when care is taken to preserve the virgin timberlands. At present its range extends east of the Rockies, from the southern provinces of Canada, south to some of the southern states, wherever there are areas of original forest growths. If you are spending the summer in some of these heavy forests you may determine the presence or absence of the bird by looking for its home. Like other woodpeckers, the pileated drills holes in dead or decaying trees. The holes are usually 15 or 20 feet from the ground, occasionally a little lower, and are square and larger than those made by either the flicker or hairy woodpecker, two of our larger woodpeckers who drill round holes. The pileated's bill is longer than its head, with a wide, flat tip, and is used in excavating the enormous holes which are often two or three feet deep. Chips which it dug out have been found measuring three inches across and six or eight inches long. Three to six white eggs are laid by the female on small chips at the bottom of the hole. Usually a pine or other evergreen is chosen for the nest but sometimes other forest trees are used. Feeds on Insects Besides drilling holes for nests the pileated woodpecker spends a good deal of his time digging under dead tree bark for injurious tree insects. About three-fourths of his food consists of insects and the remainder is made up of wild fruits, seeds and nuts. Wherever the pileated is established he is a permanent resident, and can be found in winter as well as in summer. His loud clucking call, "Cuk-cuk-cuk-cuk," something like that of the flicker but louder and more ringing, is a sound to listen for if you wish to find this woodpecker. His tapping, too, is louder than that of the hairy or flicker. Here is a bit of information sent to me long ago from a man in Three Lakes: "I expect there are a lot of people who do not know that woodpeckers are not always hunting for food when they rattle away on a dead tree or limb. This one that I have been watching, (a pileated) has a perfect sounding board on a hollow stub of an oak. I have come so close to him, often within ten feet, that I could see him perfectly through my binoculars. It is really surprising how far the tattoo can be heard on a still frosty morning. I heard this bird at a distance of over half a mile, on such a morning not long ago."

Clara Hussong "great God woodpecker."

'Prison Break' to Open Here Aug. 10

Barton MacLane, Glenda Farrell Co-Star in New Picture

Barton MacLane and Glenda Farrell turn their talents to stark and thrilling drama in "Prison Break," scheduled to open at the Appleton Theatre August 10 for a three day engagement.

MacLane and Miss Farrell, who have been starring in the "Torchy Blane" series of laughmakers, are cast as the central characters in a moving story of the evils of the present prison parole system.

MacLane will be seen as a tuna-fisherman who assumes the burden of another's crime and is sentenced to a term in San Quentin. For his heroic share in the suppression of a murderous prison riot and wholesale jail-break, he is paroled. But he finds himself unable to secure honest employment, breaks his parole and considers a life of crime.

Miss Farrell is cast as his sweetheart, who ultimately convinces him that his best course is to return to prison.

Supporting MacLane and Miss Farrell are Paul Hurst, Constance Moore, Ward Bond, Edward Pawley, Edmund MacDonald, John Russell, Frank Marion, and Victor Killian. From records of the California state parole board come many of the incidents incorporated in the production, dealing with the plight of a paroled convict striving to make an honest living with the restrictions of his parole as a handicap. Prison politics among convict cliques, attempted jail deliveries and riots are high-action points of the drama.

In the filming life scenes of the tuna fishing fleet, the cast of "Prison Break" spent many days at sea in two modern tuna clippers operating in the waters adjacent to Santa Catalina Island, California, where an unprecedented run of blue-fin tuna provided authentic atmosphere, as well as excellent sport fishing for the picture-makers. The picture was produced by Trem Carr, and directed by Arthur Lubin.

Campers on Rowboat Trip Through Chain o' Lakes

BY HENRY JOHNSON

Camp Onaway—Thirty-four Onaway campers accompanied by four leaders returned Tuesday afternoon from a rowboat trip through the Chain o' Lakes and Beasley creek. Eight boats left early in the afternoon and rowed as far as Long lake. Here four continued along to the end of Long lake while the other four branched off into Beasley creek. They continued along the creek through several smaller lakes and then beached their boats at the end of Marl lake. Here the campers walked across to the boats which had been left by the other half of the group on Long lake and continued back down the Chain. During the trip the scenic estate, Whispering Pines, was visited.

Those campers making the trip were Bob McGee, Dan Moser, Max Koletzke, Robert Spencer, Richard Sears, Wayne Gerharz, Bill Kunstman, Harry Arthur, Bob Gmeiner, Lynn Miller, Tom Van Housen, Joe Benton, Tom Kepner, Ralph Vogt, Owen Kuemsted, Justin Smith, Dick Mahoney, Kenneth Curry, Clem Ketchum, Dick Bailey, Paul Nelson, Tom Orblison, Harland Clark, and Charles Dunger, all of Appleton.

John Bennie, Harold Brooks, Robert Brooks, Jack Siemmon, Green Bay; Jack Neitzel, Milwaukee; David Gustman, Kaukauna; Dean Gray, Neenah; Bob Gottesleben, Wauwatosa; and Carl Griner, Freedom, Sid Cotton, Karl Richmond, Warren Buesing, and C. C. Bailey, camp director, were in charge of the trip.

Plans for Saturday evening campfire will include a mammoth amateur hour which will be "broadcast" with the aid of a home made microphone. Thursday evening will be leaders' night, and the leaders are now preparing stunts for that occasion. On Friday night the annual initiation ceremonies—formal and otherwise—will be held.

A water pageant is being planned for Sunday afternoon. Campers are now enthusiastically scouring the island for sheets, blankets, and any other article which might possibly be used as a sail. Rules for this sail boat race are very few, rowboats must be used, and amateur sailors may install as many masts or sails as they wish.

Japanese Cannot Afford to Enter War With Russia

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—Japan's appeal to soviet Russia for peace in their warfare at the junction of the Manchoukuo-Siberia-Korea borders is good news, but not unexpected. It's good news because it may spike a possible world war.

It's not unexpected because the wise men of the east have made it clear that the Japanese scarcely can hope to wage war successfully against China and Russia at the same time.

Even now the mikado's war-machine in China is encountering mightily tough going, and the Japanese people are hard-pressed to find the wherewithal to keep it running.

All of which sums up to this: War with Russia might easily cost Japan the great gains made thus far in the conquest of China.

That would be like losing Alladin's lamp and the vast treasures it controlled. Japan has overrun about a million square miles, including Manchoukuo. This great area is one-third the size of continental United States, with a population of 235,000,000—nearly twice that of our country.

Within this territory are natural resources beyond the avarice of a Midas. Within it, too, are many of the Chinese industries.

It is more or less the complete answer to Japan's urge for expansion and a self-sufficiency to make her independent of the outside world.

Permanent Equipment Is Part of Structural Cost

Madison—U—The board of control was advised Friday by Attorney General O. S. Loomis that permanent equipment may be figured in the structural cost of a county tuberculosis sanatorium. The opening was requested in connection with additions to the sanatorium at Eau Claire. Sterilizers, X-ray units, and dish washers, as well as sidewalks and lawn improvements, may be included in the cost, the opinion said.

Maureen O'Sullivan Is Co-Star of Fight Story, 'The Crowd Roars'

Robert Taylor plays his first prizefight role in "The Crowd Roars," action-packed story of the modern prize ring, now showing at the Rio theater, where it plays thru Tuesday.

Maureen O'Sullivan, who played opposite the star in "A Yank at Oxford" as once again cost at Taylor's heroine in the new picture and an exceptional cast of prominent actors includes Edward Arnold as a racketeer, Frank Morgan as Taylor's father, an ex-vauvexille "ham," William Garzan, Lionel Stander and Jane Wyman.

Based on a story by George Bruce, author of "Navy Blue and Gold," the picture reveals behind-the-scenes activities of the boxing game, with Taylor as a pavy in the shady manipulation of a gambling syndicate.

"The Crowd Roars" offers Taylor in the hardest-hitting role of his career as Tommy McCoy, the boy from the wrong side of the tracks, who fights his way up from the slums to a chance at the lightweight heavyweight championship.

Three smashing bouts in the colorful setting of Madison Square Garden climax the eventful career of the young fighter, who finds a battle with racketeers more serious than his challenge for the title.

"Penrod's Double Trouble," starring the Mauch twins—Billy and Dobby—in the most adventurous film of their budding careers, and co-feature in the same program.

"Penrod's Double Trouble" is the third picture of the series being produced by Warner Bros with Boeth Tarkington's immortal character of boyhood as its central character, and it is, like its predecessors, full of touches of homely humor and nostalgic charm, but spirited action is its keynote.

Jungle Picture Will Show Two Days at Rio

Once in a blue moon a film comes along which so vividly portrays nature in the raw and mankind at its most primitive and untamed that the moviegoing public realizes it is seeing something definitely new in screen entertainment! Such a picture is "Boo!oo," dramatic story of the Malayan jungle, which is featured on the mid-week program, Wednesday and Thursday, at the Rio theater.

"Boo!oo" recaptures all the beauty, mystery and primeval terror of a jungle region into which few white men have ever penetrated. It is an almost unbelievable land where animal-killers stalk their prey by day and night and voodoo-mad natives sacrifice maidens to their white tiger-god and murder all visitors who happen to glimpse the deity.

With Colon Tapley, the handsome young New Zealander, playing the chief role, the story tells of a young Englishman who goes into the heart of the Malayan jungle in order to capture the fabulous white tiger and so redeem the honor of his explorer-father, whose report of the phenomenon is not believed by museum authorities.

The harrowing experiences of Tapley in the jungle reveal the great feat of Director-Producer Elliott in filming "Boo!oo." Watched day and night by suspicious natives, cut off from communication with civilization when his wireless is smashed, attacked by stampeding herds of animal-killers and finally deserted by his retinue, he defies the man-hunting savages of the jungle by daring to rescue a beautiful maiden who they have sacrificed to their tiger-god. In a thrilling climax Tapley comes out of the jungle with a discovery that astounds the world of science.

Co-featured on the same program is Joe Penner in "I'm From the City." The wistful little comedian is said to be funnier than ever in "I'm From the City," which has dual backgrounds—those of the circus big top and of a Western Ranch.

Said to be one of the funniest and most exciting finishes ever devised for a comedy feature, the climactic race between Penner and an Indian rider who is also his romantic rival, brings the amusing offering to a whirlwind finish.

Texas Is Moderator of John Hus Descendants

Watertown, Wis.—Judge C. H. Chernosky, Houston, Texas, today was elected moderator by delegates to the conference of Spiritual Descendants of John Hus in session here.

Other officers elected were: the Rev. Karl Mueller of Watertown, Wis., first vice moderator; the Rev. Joseph Leksa, Milwaukee, second vice moderator; and Leo Loppnow, Lake Mills, Wis., and A. Barton, Granger, Texas, secretaries, and Theodore Heitz, Watertown, treasurer.

Officials pushing the project have the assurance of state officials that the state emergency board is interested in the problem and probably will give some financial assistance for a thorough-going investigation of the long-lived pollution at the mouth of the river.

Asked about the possibility of emergency board aid yesterday, Governor LaFollette, he said, said that he realizes the problem is extremely serious but that the board would demand more definite figures on costs before any outlay is approved.

Menasha School Swimming Pool Will be Opened

Registration for Regular Periods Will be Held Monday

Menasha—The Menasha High school swimming pool will be opened next week to all school boys and girls. It was decided at a meeting of the board of education last night at the high school office.

The purpose of opening the pool is to accommodate boys and girls who are unable to swim because the Menasha beaches have been closed.

School children from public and parochial schools who are able to swim will be enrolled in scheduled swimming periods starting Tuesday, Aug. 9. Registration will be held at the high school building Monday, Aug. 8, from 9 to 12 in the morning and 1 to 3 in the afternoon.

Although only those children who are able to swim will be allowed in the pool next week, it is expected that "learn to swim" classes will be organized later.

Coach N. A. Calder and Sarah Heckrodt have been hired to supervise the boys and girls' groups respectively. Boys will swim on Monday Wednesday and Friday, while the girls will use the pool on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The pool will be open from 9 to 11:30 in the morning and 1 to 3 in the afternoon.

Arrangements are being made for proper bathing suits. Because of the nature of the filters in the pool, only cotton or rubber suits will be permitted, and children having such suits may use them providing they are properly laundered each time they are used. Those not owning cotton or rubber suits may buy them at the high school at cost or rent them at a nominal sum. Children who bring their own suits will be required to furnish their own towels.

The board decided that every possible measure will be taken for the health and safety of the children. It is planned that two qualified instructors will supervise swimming period and all entering the pool will be inspected by the instructor in charge. The water in the pool is heated at approximately 74 degrees, and it is filtered two and one-half times each 24 hours and tested daily for proper chlorination.

Iola Residents Donate Labor and Material to Build Clubhouse Near Toboggan Slide and New Ski Run

Iola — An example of the cooperative spirit of small towns that get things accomplished is offered by the village of Iola, in Waupaca county. When a group of business men and other residents of Iola built a toboggan slide on a hill a short distance north of town several years ago, they little realized the greater activities which would follow.

Last winter on an adjoining hill known to residents of Iola as the "hogsback," they built a ski scaffold atop a natural underdunk. Many of the older fellows among them who hadn't skied for years donned the wooden slats for an attempted "comeback" in their favorite sport.

Those who tried out the hill had almost as much fun as those who stood on the sidelines and watched the not too graceful riders perform. With a toboggan run and ski slide constructed, time was ripe for organization of the Iola Winter Sports club, which is now an active organization with many plans for the future.

Decide on Clubhouse Somebody pronounced the idea that a warm house would be a necessary adjunct to skiing and tobogganing. The idea grew and this summer, before actual construction was started, it was decided to build a clubhouse suitable for holding business meetings, card parties, etc., as well as providing a place convenient for use by outdoor sportsmen.

Timber from which the log-like slats were made for facing the building and from which much of the lumber was cut was donated by owners of the timber land. A lumber company donated hardwood flooring.

An old-fashioned "sawing bee" was held and 18 men from around town operated the Wipf sawmill to cut two-by-fours and other boards needed in construction of the building.

Fifteen empty nail kegs were filled with concrete and used as a foundation. Everybody helped to make the venture a success. Club members built the building, working principally on Sundays. Ole Strai built the chimney, Louis R. Rasmussen did the electric wiring, and club members cleaned up the grounds. All of the work was donated, as well as most of the material.

Structure Well-built The building is sturdily and warmly constructed. Floors and walls are insulated with wood shavings used between inner and outer walls to keep out the cold. To reduce costs, no fireplace was built, but a large wood heater will be placed in one end of the one-room building to keep the place warm.

Costly items of expense were $17 for roofing and $25 for some of the millwork. The entire cash expenditure for the completed building ran under $85. Business men of Iola donated windows and doors.

The clubhouse is located between the toboggan run and the ski slide. On the Iola mill pond, just below the building, the club plans to maintain a skating rink next winter to round out its winter sports facilities.

New London — The K. C.'s kept their unblemished record clean by trouncing Local 1107 last night at the Washington High school park by the lop-sided score of 12 to 4.

The game was called off in the last of the fourth when the players were too handicapped by the darkness to continue. Although the K. C.'s have won 2 and lost 0, they must still stop one more to go into a tie with the strong Borden club.

Outside of the third inning when Local 1107 scored four runs on five walks and one hit did Nader, the hurler for the K. C.'s have any trouble. He set them down with four hits and was a big gun on the offense for his club when he batted out two singles and a home run for a perfect day at bat. Charlesworth, his third baseman, was another power on the offense with three hits in four trips to the plate and he also scored three runs.

For the losers, Al Tessen led in hitting with two hits in as many times at bat and tallied one of the 1107's four runs. R. White, their first string flinger, was relieved in the second inning by Sofia after having given up four runs in the first on a walk and four hits. Sofia began well but soon found himself in the same trouble as his predecessor and gave up eight runs in the next three innings.

Right Word May Have Lasting Effect on Child

BY ANGELO PATRI

If only we were wise enough to say the right word at just the right time. There are times in children's lives when the right word is enough to turn the tide of thought and energy toward the right thing for that particular child. If that time passes without the word it is lost, and we must hope for other tides and other words. The whole thing is shrouded in the mysteries of the human spirit and we can only feel our way. But wanting to be there on time, does help to get us there occasionally, even though we do not know it.

We were not especially pleased when a social visitor brought in a boy with a school record that looked like nothing but a laundry ticket, that had been badly blotted with red ink. Why one should mark a child's misfortunes in red so the world must stop and look—but that is not the point here. The point is this boy with neither father nor mother, or family relative, to look after him, was being added to our already heavy number of help- less children.

"Not that anybody," we said, "is there anything he likes to do?"

"What would you like to be when you grow up?" we asked the seamy, leggy, speckled lad who was leaning against the table looking as if there was nothing anywhere in his world worth wanting to be.

"An actor," said he with alarming promptness.

"Good enough. We'll let you start in the dramatics class."

The next we heard of him was a complaint from the garden teacher. "That new boy thinks the iris bed is a landing for the high jump. He jumps the fence and lands in the iris. I hollered at him to get out of there and he thumbed his nose at me." Of course, he would.

By and by I saw him practicing his jump, just as the teacher had described, and sauntered out. I was mad enough to want to seize him by the seat of the pants and toss him into the swimming pool, but I waited until I could see him again as the helpless child, without father or mother or friends, lonely and afraid, wanting to be the hero on the stage, bowing to the applause of the audience. When I felt he was that boy again and I went over and said, "Son, those flowers have as much right to live as you have." He looked at me, said nothing, and walked away. I forgot all about it until long afterward, when he was

Worst Errors Are Made by Half-Experts

BY ELY CULBERTSON

In this age of acute specialization it has become quite the thing to "rate" bridge players according to at least six classifications. Thus, we have masters, experts, advanced, better-than-average, average, poor, and plain dubs.

For most practical purposes, however, three categories—poor, fair, and good—are sufficient. And this brings up a curious point: Certain types of errors are made exclusively by the middle class. Take today's hand, for example. Neither a good player nor a poor one could possibly fail to fulfill the contract. The declarer who usually went astray knew just a little too much for his own good.

South, dealer.

The bidding:
South West North East

3 spades Pass 4 spades Pass

West opened the heart king, then led the queen. Now I feel quite sure that nine players in ten, in South's position, would ruff without a second thought, and they would be right. After ruffing, the ace, king and another spade would clear the decks to the point at which declarer could gracefully concede a diamond trick and claim his contract. But this declarer was cursed by the fact that he had seen a certain play used with great effectiveness. That the circumstances were in no sense identical did not strike him. Apparently he believed in using his hard-won knowledge. So, on the second heart lead, this poor, benighted declarer nonchalantly chucked his losing diamond! Viewed superficially, this play could cost nothing, since the diamond trick would have to be conceded sooner or later. But superficial reasoning at this grand game is worse than none! Note what actually happened.

West led a third heart and East, realizing that his jack of trumps was no good to him, ruffed in with it! That little play was declarer's finish. Now he had to over-ruff (or concede the trick) and West, who was pleased astonishment, found that his Q 2 of trumps had been promoted to the value of two tricks, including the setting trick.

A Little Saturday Talk

The postman has just called, and one of the letters he brought is from Helen Kuckelberg. Although I never have met her, Helen has been writing me letters from time to time for six or seven years. Her present letter tells that she studied in her first year at college. It also contains a paragraph which I want to quote:

"I think I've told you before," she writes, "that as much as I enjoy your daily column, I like your Saturday talks best. They always seem so informal, just as though you were talking directly to me."

Those words please me, for they make me think I may be succeeding in what I am trying to do on Saturday. Long ago, I set Saturday aside as a day to talk to readers in a special way—speaking of their letters to me, about their plans and hopes, their joys and sorrows, and once in a while about my own life and adventures.

How I wish every reader could have the same feeling Helen has! Day after day, week after week, I write stories of history, science, travel and adventure.

I try to add to the knowledge of those who follow our column, but would not want anyone to picture me as some kind of a machine grinding out facts! I assure you I am a human being with hopes and dreams, joys and sorrows. I work rather hard, but like my work, and always try to make it better.

Right now I am sitting outdoors, under some tall trees. My typewriter rests on a built-in table in what might be called a "summer-house." Yes, we could call it that, but it isn't much of a house. It is just a bit of the outdoors with screens around it. I love Nature, but I don't care for visits from mosquitoes!

The trees give me shade in this little house. The roof is a screen covering, but there are panes of glass over the screen at one end. The glass affords a dry corner when the rain comes down—as it sometimes does!

A gentle breeze blows through the trees. I hear birds calling to their mates—or to their young. Through small openings in the woods, I see patches of the clear blue sky, and now and then I have a glimpse of the golden sun.

When the air is warm enough, but not too warm, when the breeze is gentle and the leaves rustle, when the crickets chirp and the birds sing, when the squirrels scamper from limb to limb, when the sun scatters his rays over a clear blue sky—we have a bright and beautiful summer day.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

SEE THE NEWSMAINS

Dear Mrs. Post: I will, for the sake of clarity, call ourselves the Newsmains in this neighborhood. The Oldnames called on us last week and left their Mr. and Mrs. card but did not ring the bell. As we had a houseful of relatives visiting us that day, it is possible that the Oldnames did not care to interrupt when they heard all the noise and talking going on indoors. Since they never left their card at the door and did not ask to see us, I don't know what to do now. Would you suggest leaving my card at their door, and then wait for them to come back again? Or should I ring the bell and ask to see Mrs. Oldname? If I see her, shall I leave a card?

Answer: It seems evident that the laughter and talking that was going on in your house was the reason why Mr. and Mrs. Oldname did not ask to see you. In any case you should return their visit within the week and of course ask to see her. If under similar circumstances you should find that she is evidently having a party, then—taking it for granted that you would like to meet her—it would be best to go back home and come again in a day or two, that is, if it is possible for you to return within a day or two. But rather than put off paying this visit for a week or two, it would be better to ring the bell and leave your card, and say that you want to come in because she is evidently having a party in other words, I would not, if I were you, push my cards under the door or leave them with a maid without making some explanation as to why you didn't ask to see her. To leave your cards and say nothing is ending a possible friendship before it has begun; in other words, before either of you has found out whether you would find each other agreeable or not.

The Manners of A Renting Agent

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a woman-renting agent of the large apartment house in which I live. Will you tell me, when I show people the apartments that are for rent, whether I should let them enter the hall door first, or would it be permissible for me to go in first and stand aside for them?

Answer: If the people are men you would go first, but if they are women you should unlock the door and push it open, and then let them enter first. Or if there is any reason why you should go first, that is, if you are entering a dark hall, and the switch of the light is not immediately at the door, then you would of course go first after saying, "Excuse me while I light the light," or "open the windows." And then go in and light the light or open the shutters or pull up the shades.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Somehow when bathing days come along the majority of women feel they don't have to care for their hair. "In the fall I'll get a few good treatments," they promise themselves, without realizing that possibly the damage done during the summer cannot be corrected by a few special treatments.

It is good to remember that your hair goes to the beach too. Right along with you it can't take the sun and the salt water any better than your skin. It requires the same care and protection.

Essential Care

During the summer brush your hair daily. If it is too oily or too dry use a tonic just as you would during the colder months. A shampoo once every two weeks or once every ten days is necessary. Between shampoos be sure to rinse out the salt water if you get it wet bathing. Salt water on the hair acts like minute magnifying crystal, attracting the sun and having great bleaching power. If you allow your hair to dry with it on, while the sun beats down, you probably will fade or bleach it beyond reconditioning.

There are several summer rules which every woman and girl should follow regarding hair care. Here they are:

Always keep your hair covered while you are under intense sun.

If hair is dry, keep a little tonic or olive oil massaged into the scalp.

Never expose tinted hair to the sun's rays.

If you expose hair to the sun at all it should be brushed out fluffy and free—not set as you normally wear it. So that the sun can penetrate it all and reach the entire surface of your scalp.

Have your hair set with water only, or if you require a lotion, choose a quick drying one.

Try water-proofing your hair before taking a dip by spraying it with one of these lotions. That helps to keep it dry and it also prevents rapid fading if the sun reaches it.

Rather than too frequent soap shampoos cleanse it occasionally with a light tonic.

And summer is a grand time to let your back hair line grow in. Don't clip it or let your hair-dresser clip it. You will want a brushed up hair-do this fall and how can you have it if your back hair line looks like a whisk brush?

If you can get away with it put off getting a new permanent wave until the middle of September or the first of October. Let those mistreated dried hair ends grow out and be cut off.

Trouble Results When Love Is on False Basis

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Funny thing about all of this fuss over what love is and what husbands. All of us men know how simple it is, but women have been having headaches over it for centuries because they have been trying to make a mystery out of a very natural relationship and turn a mere man into a god. This is where the trouble starts. The women are just drunk with the false belief that love will end all of their troubles forever, and that when they possess it, life will be a never-ending petting party. A girl with this deluded idea gets married. All too soon the honeymoon ends. Familiarity begins its process of numbing some of the great thrills. Her Prince Charming runs true to type and turns out to be just a common, everyday man. Then comes the great disillusionment for the girl, which is the penalty of worshipping a false god. The young bride falls hard because she has climbed to the high perch. The romance sour, and she sets out to avenge her wrong at the expense of her innocent husband.

With nagging and slouchiness drives him away from her. Next she is telling the court of her husband's unfaithfulness and hijacking him for every cent of alimony she can get. As for holding husbands, the method is too simple to be interesting. All a woman has to do to keep her husband is to use the same wiles she used in catching him. Isn't it so, men?

MARRIED OBSERVER.

Answer:

It is so, brother. You've put wives right on the spot, and to be perfectly fair you should stand their husbands up beside them, for the great trouble with matrimony is that both men and women go into it on a false basis, and then they refuse to go on with their act.

It is perfectly true that the average woman simply dopes herself up with sentiment until she believes that love can work miracles; that just because she happens to feel "that way" toward some boy all that she asks of life is just to be with him; that she will never care whether or not she has anything to eat or a new dress or to go to a place of amusement or have a decent place to live. All so it is true that she wraps around him the cloak of her imagination and sees him not as he is but as she wants him to be, a romantic hero. She expects him to keep up marriage the high-pressure loving of his courting days.

It is likewise true that 30 per cent of the disappointment in marriage that women talk so much about and that sends them to the divorce court, is nothing but the man coming down to normalcy, being himself, saying it with beef instead of violets and expecting her to have enough sense to take his affection for granted.

Also it is true that virtually every wife could hold her husband if she would continue to cut bait after marriage and try as hard to please her husband as she did her sweetheart, and if she would do this, she would have as much jolly-ing and soft soap in getting along with him. Most men marry for a home and not many of them would room if their wives didn't fall down on their jobs of making home the most attractive spot in the world to them.

But do not men make exactly the same mistake in marriage that women do? Doesn't a man marry because some girl has happened to hit his fancy, without ever considering whether she is what he wants in a wife or not?

And don't men expect love to work some sort of a miracle that will not only turn a pretty little Dumb Dora into an intelligent companion, or a nervous, high-tempered, shrewish girl into a placid, good-natured wife, but that will somehow work so on their own systems that they won't get tired of a bore or mind being nagged?

You know they do, and you also know that the reason there are so many unfaithful husbands is because men are forever in search of this impossible love myth and this never-ending thrill, just as women are.

Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to be married to a man who is divorced. He wants me to wear the same engagement ring that his first wife had. Do you think this is fair to me?

Troubled.

Answer:

It is an insult, and if the man had the slightest delicacy of feeling he wouldn't ask you to do such a thing. Better pass him up, I think.

Old Gardener Says:

The little dwarf trees commonly grown in foundation planting and bearing the name of Mugho pine are subject to attacks by a little green worm which works very rapidly at this season. Oftentimes its presence is not discovered until much damage has been done. If left undisturbed, these pests will denude the plants and probably kill them. Spraying with a good insecticide is a preventive measure, but if the pests are found working, the best plan is to spray them with a nicotine preparation, taking pains to hit them with the spray. One or two applications will be sufficient.

My Neighbor Says—

This is a good time to obtain small plants of campanula isophylla, which is often called the Star of Bethlehem. For a long time this plant has been scarce, but it is now being distributed in the trade. Small plants can be obtained at a low price, and if given good care through the Summer will begin to flower next Winter, growing better each year. A plant several years old produces such a profusion of star-shaped flowers that the foliage is almost entirely hidden. This campanula looks best when grown in hanging pots or baskets, or in a pot on a bracket. The kind is most often seen, but there is also a blue variety.

When next you buy suit, melt it in the oven, and then pour into jars. When cold it is more easily shredded, and will keep much longer.

Squash may be easily peeled if it is first put into the oven and thoroughly warmed.

Never open a waffle iron until the steam ceases to come from the iron. The waffle is then done.

Ladies Aid Societies In Meetings at Dale

Dale—A daughter, Emily Jean, was born last week to Mr. and Mrs. August Reed.

The Ladies Aid society of the Reformed church met Thursday with Mrs. Lloyd Prentice.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid society met at the church parlors with Mrs. C. Arndt and Mrs. Ed Beckman as hostesses.

George Dobberstein gave a birthday party to his friends at Haase's hall Tuesday evening.

Sam Watson, a former Dale merchant but now of Wason Flats, Mont., is confined to a hospital at Jordan, Mont., suffering from a stroke.

Mrs. Len Nutter and Mrs. Henry Sauerhammer have entered St. Elizabeth's hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parsons of Payne's a handsome lad, with some little experience in pictures, and he can sing. Sing well, obviously, as he was being tested for "Desert Song" when Powell walked. He stands a good chance of clicking—but it isn't in the bag.

The Cinderella formula has working in many cases. When Myrna Loy pointed over salary and left town, Metro turned to an obscure little foreigner, just learning English, and put her in the picture Myrna abandoned. The little foreigner caught on in "Escapade" and since has won two academy awards—Luisa Rainer.

Paramount once had a picture ready to go with Clara Bow and Gary Cooper. But Clara couldn't make it; ill, tired of pictures and publicity, she took a vacation. To make the picture the studio brought back a stage actress who had tried pictures once before with no result. So "City Streets" made a movie star of Sylvia Sydney.

And Jack La Rue

On one of George Raft's several walks for what he considered his professional health the role he left behind was filled by Jack La Rue. Raft had refused the unsavory assignment in "The Story of Temple Drake" on the grounds it would turn the fans against him. La Rue, comparatively unknown, could risk that. But the picture did him no good.

He never seemed to escape the stigma of that first big chance. He played gangsters and murderers until he rebelled at the typing. In back a stage actress and later in "A Farewell to Arms" and later in "Captains Courageous" he did excellent priestly roles, proving his versatility—but he never became a big star like the understudy in the backstage movie.

When Bette Davis went to England fighting with her studio, she left a vacant role in "God's Country and the Woman." The studio put Beverly Roberts in the part. By all the rules Miss Roberts should have become a sensation. It is no discredit to her that she didn't. One of the reasons Bette Davis went to England was "God's Country and the Woman"—and her assignment in it.

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Green Bay at Seymour (10 a. m.).
Kaukauna at Manitowish.
Clintonville at Two Rivers.
New London at Kimberly (night).

THE pennant race in the Northern State league, which is getting almost as hot as the weather, will be resumed Sunday with one morning contest, two in the afternoon and one in the evening.

Seymour, tied with Clintonville for first place, will take on Green Bay in the morning game as a feature of the Seymour fair. The northern club probably will use Penzenstadler on the hill while LeRoy Arnes is expected to toss for Green Bay. The Sox are reposing at the bottom of the loop with only one win in seven starts.

The afternoon games will have Kaukauna and Clintonville over on the lake shore. Kaukauna clashes with Manitowish and the Truckers will meet Two Rivers.

The night contest will have Kimberly, in third place in standings and watching a chance to move up, entertaining New London.

EYE FIRST PLACE
Kimberly, who is right in store for Kimberly baseball fans Sunday at the local ball park when New London invades the Papermakers' tee to cross bats under the lights at 8:30.

Enthusiasm for the local team is high because the Papermakers are riding a winning crest that may bring the second half hunting to

VALLEY TEAM TO REPRESENT KAWS
Kaukauna—Resignation of Howard Bowers as manager of the Kaukauna baseball team of the Northern State league was announced by the club today. It also was announced that the Kaukauna team of the Fox River Valley league, augmented by several Northern State players, would complete the Kaukauna schedule.

Bowers announced that failure of the fans to support the club despite the fact it has been playing top ball all season, and failure of several of the players to stick with the team, resulted in his decision to resign.

Walter Kilgas, manager of the team in the Fox River Valley league will manage the club in State league competition. The lineup at Manitowish Sunday probably will show Ben Peck, catcher, Dick Weiserber, pitcher, Rader, first base, Vondrasek, second base, L. Schuler, short, Gertz, third, Busse, left, Kappell, center and V. Hahn, right. Reserves will be Fred and V. Hahn, outfielders, Eddie and M. Schuler, pitchers, Ray Dietrich, pitcher, and Martins, catcher.

The Kaukauna-Grand Chute game in the Fox River Valley league will be played at 10 o'clock in the morning here to permit the squad to show at Manitowish in the afternoon.

the valley. The team not only is hitting when hits mean runs but the excellent performance of pitcher Art Hahn, and the curving of Art Hahn's arm, have the club two capable pitchers.

In addition, Ed Green is with the team and his presence has a extra punch and determination.

New London is dangerous at all times and it is one of the Sox's goal to beat the Papermakers in a four game series.

New London probably will show Palmer, D. Vance, Waller, St. Hawk, St. C. K. R. St. Westphal, St. Muncie, St. Schull, St. O. Krolin, and DeWinsten, R.

The Papermakers probably will show Z. H. Vorseken, St. Strick, St. DeWinsten, St. Bowman, St. L. Lewis, St. Hahn, St. Bowers, or L. Lewis, and St. B. or Hahn, St. K.

TRUCKERS TAKE TO ROAD
Clintonville—The Clintonville Truckers are in a tie with Seymour for first place in the Northern State League and Sunday travel to Two Rivers in the hope of staying in first place and battling it out with Seymour for the league lead when Seymour comes to Clintonville next Thursday evening. Thursday the Truckers defeated the Manitowish Shipbuilders 11 to 5 in a wild ball game. The Truckers garnered 14 hits off 3 Shipbuilder pitchers.

The Truckers still have a tough schedule ahead of them after Sunday meeting Seymour next Thursday, the Green Bay Green Sox, Kaukauna and the New London High Lites. But just to make things more interesting, the management has scheduled a game with the Sheboygan Champs to be played in the near future.

Young Broker Plays 144 Holes in 15 Hours, Wins A Plantation and $2,500

BY EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO—(U)—J. Smith Ferebee, thirty-three, slipped back into his role of a successful young businessman today, but to the rest of the city he was golf's newly crowned "king of swing."

The 31-year-old investment broker swung it over Olympia Fields' four courses yesterday—playing 144 holes of golf in 15 hours and seven minutes to win complete ownership of a $30,000 Virginia plantation and $2,500 in side bets.

In his amazing display of stamina, Ferebee played all night, 144 holes in 90 strokes and under, easily fulfilling the terms of a wager made with another Chicago businessman, Fred Tukey, who bet his half interest in the Virginia property that Ferebee could not play all eight rounds, without slipping over 95 strokes on at least one of them.

The blond golfer who once wrestled for the University of Virginia, tossed time and the elements decisively in whipping the marathon. He had rounds of 90, 82, 82, 87, 88 and 89. His stroke total was 687, 119 strokes over par and he had five birdies and 44 pars.

Golfers of 600
The elements gave him a stiff battle but with plucky determination which had a gallery of 600 persons pulling for him, Ferebee fought his way through two heavy rainstorms and played the last hole as darkness fell. Starting shortly after 5 a. m., he had completed 72 holes within six hours. Then at noon rain drenched the course and another storm two hours later forced him into the clubhouse for about an hour.

On the final 18 holes he limped badly. Both feet were blistered and his shots lacked the power they had earlier in the day. He finished strong, however, getting a par 4 and one over par 5 on the final two holes to receive an ovation from the crowd. He appeared refreshed after a shower and rub down and posed for more than an hour for photographers.

He stopped to change clothing and shoes four times during the day and ate "on the run." He consumed only three sandwiches and a candy bar all day. A staff of 12 caddies worked with him in relays, two always going ahead to mark the position of his ball. One of them, Arthur Chascheta, told the bug and his 14 clubs for 108 holes.

"I'm settling down to my business from now on," he said. "And forgetting all about this marathon golf stuff. Tukey and I plan a conference late today over the property transfer. I'm glad I did it, however, because I wanted to show several friends that I had enough physical stuff to go 144 holes without collapsing. I was worried only once—that second afternoon storm. But when it started to clear up I knew I was in."

The team played host to New London on Forster field last night and turned back the invaders, 8-7. The Merchants led throughout the tilt, but the visitors constantly threatened.

Merkel's single to center in the first frame started the Merchants on their way. She went to second when Oertel grounded out and scored when Salm made first on an error.

The Merchants shoved over four more in the third. Oertel singled, went to third on Plamann's hit and scored when Salm cracked a safe ball. Plamann and Salm scored on Patterson's double. Patterson stole third and came in when Hoppe grounded out.

Three hits and an error brought New London two runs in the fourth inning. The visitors got another run in their half of the fifth after Durnback and Runge both hit safely.

Plamann Hits Triple
In the Merchants half of the fifth, Plamann started with a triple and scored when Salm made first on an error. Hoppe doubled to center, Salm scoring, and the Merchants were out in front by 7-3.

Merkel scored in the sixth to make the count 8-6. New London then turned on the pressure, with De Young smacking out a triple. She scored when Fenton singled. Fenton was left on second as A. Runge struck out and the game ended.

Milwaukee Golfer Wins State Legion Playoff

Waushara—(U)—Max Shimon of Milwaukee, carded a 75 yesterday to win a three cornered playoff for the state American Legion's twelfth annual tourney.

Shimon dropped a seven foot putt on the eighteenth green to nose out Clarence Hornung of Fond du Lac, by one stroke. Jeff Fowd of Milwaukee, finished third with 81.

The trio had tied with rounds of 76 Thursday, leading an all-time record field of 108 entrants at Merrill Hills Country club links.

Bob Feller Gives 11 Walks, Yanks Defeat Indians

Crowd of 62,000 Persons Sees New York Increase Lead

CLEVELAND—(U)—The Yankees collected only four hits yesterday, but Joe Gordon whacked a homer and young Bobby Feller kindly walked 11 batters to give the New Yorkers a 6 to 1 decision over the Indians in the opening tilt of their important three-game series. A crowd of 62,773 turned out for the battle.

The victory, achieved behind fine five-hit pitching by Bump Hadley, sent the Yanks 3½ games in front of the Tribe in the American league race, the biggest edge Gehrig and co. has enjoyed this season.

Feller just couldn't find the plate. In fact, he was the best man the Yanks had on the field. He had runners on base in every one of the seven innings he worked, twice walked three batters in a row, and once walked in a run, as he lost his sixth game of the season. For Hadley, it was the fifth victory of the year, compared with three setbacks.

Dickey on Bench
The Yanks played without the services of Bill Dickey, their ace catcher, who was sidelined with an ailing leg, but Joe Glenn, who handled the receiving chores, filled in capably. His two-bagger in the second, scoring Twinkletons George Selkirk, who had walked, gave the Yanks their first run. In the third, a hit batsman, a walk, a double steal and a fly gave the Yanks their second—and winning—run.

Cleveland's lone tally came in the fourth on Jeff Heath's triple and Ken Keltner's infield grounder, but that was the only time the Tribe proved dangerous. In the seventh, with two out, Lyn Lary and Bruce Campbell singled in succession for the only other frame in which a Tribe runner got as far as third base.

The Yanks made their second hit of the game in the fifth; Jo DiMaggio starting off a two-run rally with a single. Lou Gehrig, Selkirk and Gordon walked in order, forcing in one run, and Glenn drove in another with a long foul fly.

Gordon's fifteenth homer of the year, coming after Selkirk got his third pass of the afternoon, wound up the scoring in the seventh. Frank Crosetti stole three bases during the game.

GROVE HELPS BO SOX

Detroit—(U)—Tallying five runs in the ninth to knot the score mainly because of Joe Cronin's homer with the bases full, the Boston Red Sox picked up another run in the tenth to down the Detroit Tigers, 9 to 8, yesterday. It was the third straight defeat for Detroit.

Successive doubles by Roger Cramer and Joe Vossik brought home the winning run.

Robert Moses Grove, veteran Sox southpaw, made his first start since July 14 when his arm went dead while hurling against Detroit at Boston. He worked the first six innings, allowing five hits and four of the Tiger runs.

BROWNS DEFEAT A'S

St. Louis—(U)—The St. Louis Browns eyed seventh place yesterday after taking the first of a four-game series with Connie Mack's Athletics, 9 to 2.

But to hoist themselves out of the American league cellar Gaby Strout's lowly crew will have to sweep the remaining three games.

The generosity of Almon Williams, who started for the A's, contributed to the Browns' total today. He walked two men over the plate in succession in the fifth inning when the Browns scored six times.

Jimmy McKenny Wins Golf Title

"I CAN BEAT HIM THIS WAY—"
That's what Tommy McKenny, right, said, as he got set for a left smash to the jaw, about brother Jimmy when the latter annexed his second straight Butte des Morts club championship yesterday afternoon over which made it something of an endurance test besides a golf match. Jimmy won on the 37th hole when a chip shot was just a few feet from the pin whereas a similar shot by Tommy ran far past the pin. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Tommy Takes Two 6

Starting the second 18 holes, Tommy took the first and second but Jimmy came back and grabbed the next three. Tommy then took the seventh and the last two were halved leaving Jimmy 3-up on the 27-hole mark.

On the tenth Jimmy went into the trap but Tommy 3-putted and they halved the hole. Jimmy's lead was cut to two holes on No. 11 when his second shot went to the left of the green while Tommy was on the right edge. Tommy put his ball up for one putt and Jimmy had to take two.

Jimmy blew another hole on No. 12 when he dubbed his iron shot and landed this side of the creek while Tommy landed on the green. They halved the thirteenth hole although Jimmy had a chance to win until he missed an 8-foot putt for a birdie.

The fourteenth saw the match halved when both landed on the green in two but Jimmy blew a

SUNDAY'S GAMES

Menasha at Appleton
Little Chute at Neenah (10 a. m.)
Green Bay at Oshkosh
Grand Chute at Kaukauna (10 a. m.)

THE curtain will come down on the regular schedule of the Fox River Valley league Sunday afternoon with the important games being played at the Becher Tavern diamond in Appleton where Menasha Falcons will be the opponents, and at Kaukauna where Grand Chute will show in a morning game.

The Falcons, with six straight wins to their credit, are leading the league for the second round and must win to be assured of the honors. Kaukauna, in second place with five wins and one defeat, will be playing in the hopes it can defeat Grand Chute and that Appleton will bump the Falcons. In that event a playoff would be necessary to determine which team will clash with the Oshkosh Cubs, first round titlists, for the league championship and the right to enter the state tournament at Milwaukee.

Bechers Are Strong

Becher Taverners are in third place with four wins and two defeats, and that's what makes them dangerous. They've won four straight and are considered strong enough to beat the Falcons. George Kosloski isn't in peak hurling form. Appleton will send Abe Brokop out against the Menashas. He is a former Menasha hurler and recently has earned a ranking second to Kosloski. Clemmy DeYoung will catch for the Appleton team and Herb Kosloski will catch his brother. Advance doping indicates the game will be extremely close with Menasha pitting its ace pitcher, against an Appleton team that is doing fairly well with the club.

Kaukauna's George Kosloski also should be a thriller. Kaukauna will depend on Eddie Schuler or Junior Martins catching. Schuler is a tough pitcher when the chips are down and there are many who say he could go in the State league. Grand Chute will show Bill Noffke tossing and F. Brueggemann catching. Last week Noffke dropped a tough game to Appleton in the tenth when he uncorked a wild pitch. The game is scheduled for 10 a. m.

Neenah at Home

Neenah will be at home to Little Chute at 10 o'clock in the morning. The Neenah club draws better in the morning with most of the fans going to the beaches in the afternoon. Manager Bill Handler has indicated he will start Schultz or Menning on the hill with Christoperson catching.

Little Chute's rookies will be gunning for a win to close the season and will depend on Dan Schultz for their pitching. Lefty Wildenberg hurled for the club against the Green Bay reformatory this afternoon.

In the other league game, Oshkosh Cubs, tied for the bottom despite their first round title, will entertain Green Bay Thomas Drugs. Oshkosh will pitch Klobner and Green Bay will use Radelet.

Red Birds' Win Streak Snapped

Lose to Louisville by 10 To 4: Milwaukee Brews Idle

Louisville (7)—The seventh place Columbus Red Birds, whose sudden winning streak caused a mild sensation in the American association, were ready to start all over today.

Their victory string was snapped at nine yesterday when Louisville went on a batting spree in the ninth inning, scoring three runs and defeating the Red Birds 10 to 4 after the contest had been deadlocked at four all.

Kansas City won the final of the series with St. Paul's league leaders 3 to 2. The game was a pitching duel between Lloyd Brown and George Washburn until the eighth, when both were knocked from the box. Brown doubled home the tying run and scored the second that sent the Saints ahead 2 to 1 in the eighth. However, Kansas City came back in its half with two of its own, including a homer by Joe Gallagher, to gain the decision.

Toledo and Indianapolis broke even in a double bill. Toledo came from behind an early 4 to 0 disadvantage to win the opener 7 to 5 in 10 innings. Jack Tising pitched four hit ball in the seven innings aftermath for a 2 to 0 Indian triumph.

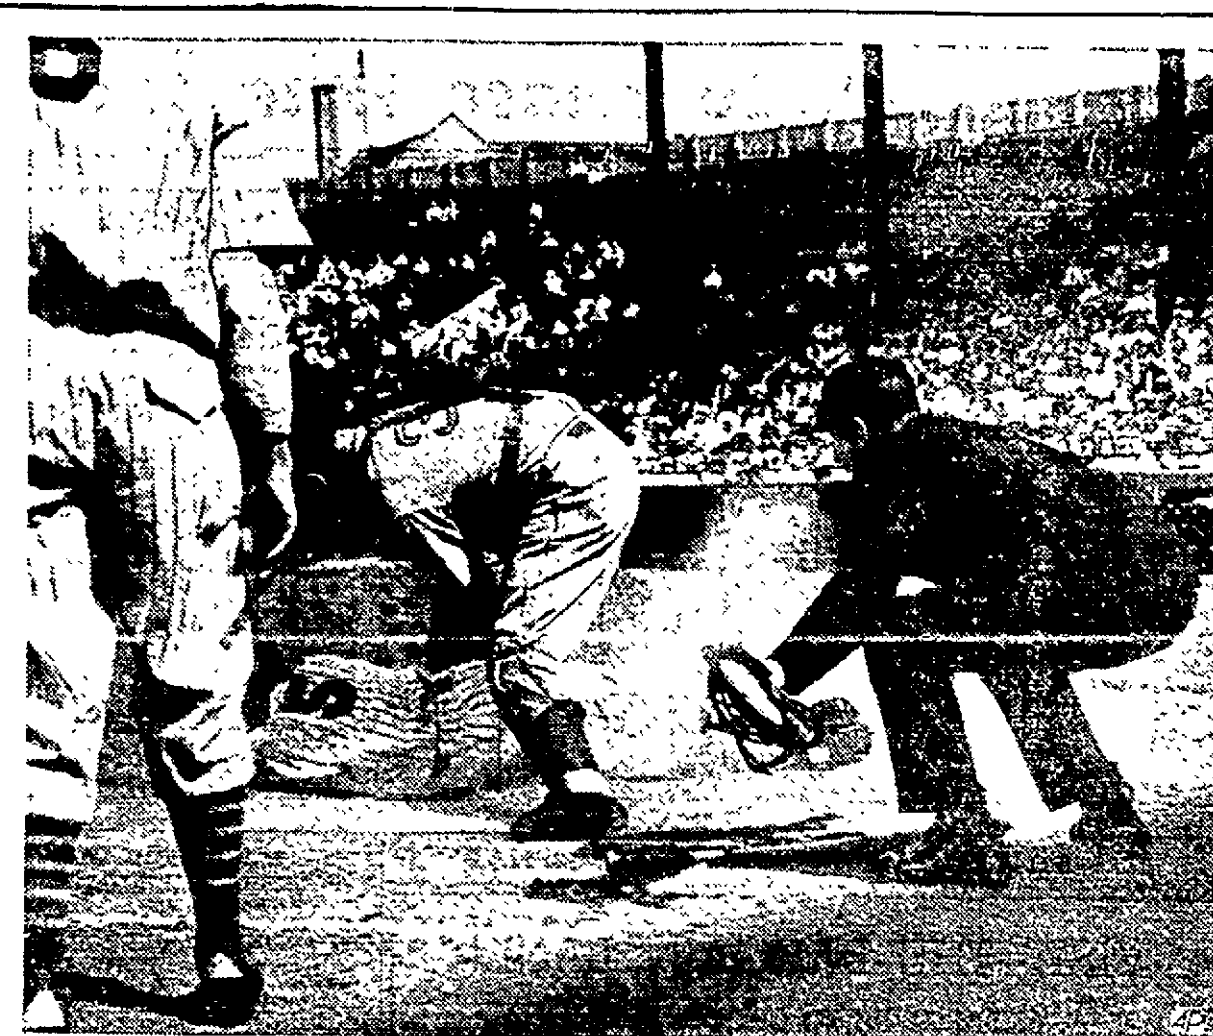

The Minneapolis at Milwaukee game was postponed because of threatening weather.

HOMECOMING FOR PACKERS

Green Bay (7)—The football game with Pittsburgh here October 23 has been designated by the Green Bay Packers as their third annual homecoming affair.

IT'S A SLIDE FOR LIFE AND HE'S SAFE AT THE PLATE
Like a greased pig, First Baseman Fletcher of the Boston Bees slid easily through legs of Cincinnati Catcher Lombardi to score in a recent game at Boston. Umpire Stark is calling the runner safe. Bees won doubleheader, 1-0, 5-1.

Kaukauna 1st, Falcons 5th in Fox River Valley Team Batting Scramble

KAUKAUNA, in second place in the Fox River Valley league standings, may not win the second round title, but it holds the team batting honors as the clubs prepare for their final games tomorrow. The Kaws have a 287 percentage from 130 hits in 453 tries. Appleton is in second place with 273 with 130 hits in 466 tries. Oshkosh also has 130 hits and a .277 mark.

Menasha, undefeated leader in the second round, is in fifth place with 112 hits in 436 tries for .257 per cent.

The individual batting race features the drive of Nodolny, Menasha, to overtake Bob Cotton, Appleton. Cotton is hitting .436, only four points more than Nodolny who shows a .432. Cotton has 17 hits in 44 tries while Nodolny has 19 in 44 tries. Cotton has been in a hitting slump for the last couple weeks and unless he shakes out of it and beats Nodolny Sunday, the Menashan may take the lead.

Their teams clash Sunday on the Appleton diamond at W. Spencer street.

Another feature of the race is that three of the managers, considered old timers as players go, are batting over .500 in the few times they've gone to the plate. John Koeh of Oshkosh is hitting .667 with two for three. Walt Murphy, Appleton, has one for two and .500 per cent and Merrill Thomas, Green Bay, three for six, and .500 per cent.

Riggs, Woods in Net Finals Today

That Is, Unless Sidney De-faults: Bobby Routs Tall Frank Kovacs

Southampton, N. Y. (7)—Sidney B. Wood, who won the Wimbledon tennis championship back in 1931 and starred on several Davis cup teams about that time, is finding the comeback road a rather rough one.

A half-dozen years ago, Sidney looked like the fair-haired boy of American tennis in more ways than one. But he gave up the game for business and lately has been devoting most of his attention to California money making with only occasional excursions to the tennis courts.

He was forced to default to Bobby Riggs in the meadow club tournament final last year when he suffered heat prostration. He's back in the last round against Riggs today, with a Davis cup berth possibly at stake, and he's threatening to default again.

Wood had quite a squabble with tournament officials yesterday after his furious five-set semi-final match with Don McNeill of Oklahoma City. Wood finally won, 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 3-5, 7-5, rallying all his strength and force to take the last set as a crop of blisters interfered with McNeill's playing. An hour before Riggs had routed Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Calif., 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

Right after that singles tussle, Wood and Joe Hunt of Los Angeles, the top-seeded doubles team, were scheduled to play Kovacs and Bobby Harman of Oakland. They wanted to default, but tournament officials refused to permit it, saying they wished to protect ticketholders, but they offered to play the doubles final this morning and the singles in the afternoon.

It turned out that today's schedule would not prove a hardship to Wood. Sidney and Hunt yielded to Kovacs and Harman, who today encounter Russell Bobbitt of Atlanta and Frank Gierney, Jr., of Orlando, Fla. The latter defeated Ernie Sutter of New Orleans and Gilbert Hunt of Washington, D. C.

Rosenbloom Gets Draw With Pastor

Maxie Takes Belting in Midsection, but Referee Says It's Even

Hollywood (7)—If that old ringmaster really meant it when he promised to turn his back on the long distance trail for the primrose path of flicker fame, then Maxie Rosenbloom has sufficient salve today for a battered and bruised section.

For 30,000 persons who packed Gilmore stadium last night wildly cheered the semi-bald veteran of 15 fight-laden years when referee Abe Roth gave him a sentimental draw with youthful, yet clever, Bob Pastor.

Most ring-side critics who stuck by the cold figures of points scored and rounds won agreed that 23-year-old Broadway Bob alone should have had his hand raised.

Pastor punished old Maxie severely around the body. As early as the sixth round Rosenbloom's handlers applied soothing ice to ease his body hurt.

Any theatricals that Rosenbloom displayed in the ring were unwelcome because Pastor permitted no clowning. There were times when it seemed Maxie could not possibly stand the attack, yet he called on those tired legs to stage a strong tenth-round rally to catch the fancy of the crowd and the referee.

Rosenbloom was not acting when he leaned over the ropes after it was all over, to accept the congratulatory hand of a picture-playing friend.

"I'm an old man," he admitted.

MILWAUKEE FIGHTER WINS

San Francisco (7)—Lester Morris, 155, Milwaukee, outpointed Sydney Brent, 154, Seattle Negro in a six round bout here last night. Morris floored the veteran with a left to the jaw in the last round.

The defeat dropped the Brooklyn into sixth place, behind the idle Boston Bees.

Paul Derringer, although tagged for 11 hits, was effective with men on bases, and went the route for his fourteenth victory of the season. The Dodgers' only run came in the fourth, when Doph Camillo clouted his sixteenth homer of the year.

The Reds broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth and put the game on possibly second two unearned runs.

Lake Geneva Boat Wins Special Regatta Race

Oconomowoc (7)—The Dibs of Lake Geneva, piloted by Ted and David Lammann of East Chicago, Ind., sailed to victory yesterday in a special adult six-mile race in the Inland Lakes Yachting association's annual Class C regatta.

The Dibs covered the distance in 52 minutes 42 seconds in a stiff southwest wind which forced more than half the field of 31 starters to drop out.

Fifteenth second and third respectively were the Pope II of Lake Geneva, skippered by Bruce and William Pope of Chicago, and Captain Barry, sailed by Irv Rueter, Jr., of Milwaukee.

The regatta winner was Pike VII, sailed by C. B. Goes of Delavan, three second places and a fourth.

Wheat Advances After Sinking to 5-Year Minimum

Decline More Than Cent Before Making Fractional Gains

Chicago.—(U)—After dropping more than a cent to new five-year lows, wheat prices today recovered all of the loss and rose fractionally above the previous close.

Traders expressed belief that as a result of a sharp price decline the last few weeks the market was thoroughly liquidated. Selling diminished greatly after mid-session and moderate buying based on a price recovery at Winnipeg and strength in securities at New York helped the recovery movement.

Receipts were: Wheat 140 cars, corn 138, oats 198.

Wheat closed 4 1/2 higher compared with yesterday's finish, September 64 1/2-65, December 60 1/2-61 and corn was 1-1 1/2 lower, September 52 1/2-53, December 50 1/2-51. Oats dropped 1-3.

Pace on Exchange Is Fastest Since July 2

New York.—(U)—Stocks accompanied the temperature on another upward climb in today's market. With motors, steels, rubbers, rails and a wide assortment of specialties in the lead, gains ran to around two points at the best with new highs for the year or longer plentiful.

session, the pace was the fastest for a Saturday since July 2. Transfers were in the neighborhood of the 800,000-share mark.

Profit-taking intervened occasionally and was a bit more insistent before the close. The result was that top gains were shaded in any cases.

Rails came into favor also, with blocks of several thousand shares of N. Y. Central, Baltimore and Ohio and Southern Pacific changing hands on the inside. Coppers, rubbers and specialties were in demand.

Brokers said the market was still motivated by continuance of pleasing business news and the belief of most observers that any general war outbreak, either on the Russo-Japanese border or in Europe was unlikely at this time.

Stock prominent on the climb included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Anacosta, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Celanese, Libby-Owens-Ford, Johns-Manville and Eastman Kodak.

Bonds did better all around, with carriers popular. Commodities were once more hesitant. Gold hoardings abroad was resumed and the price of the yellow metal in London was boosted after yesterday's slight reduction.

Utility Is Ordered to Repurchase Equipment

Madison.—(U)—The Wisconsin Rapid Electric Power Co. was ordered by the public service commission to repurchase equipment sold to its customers and then leased by the company.

The utility supplies bottled gas, largely in portable containers. The commission said it sold tanks and equipment for $123.57 a customer and then rented the equipment from the customer for 75 cents a month.

These lease, the commission ruled, were evidences of debt constituting "securities" as defined by the utility law and were illegal because the commission approval was not granted.

WARNING TO FARMERS

Wisconsin Rapids.—(U)—County Agent H. R. Lathrop warned farmers today against mosquitoes and flies, principal transmitters of equine encephalomyelitis, several cases of which have been reported in Wood County. Lathrop advised sprays to combat the "sleeping sickness."

Circus Men Down but Not Out; See Improvement in Business Next Year

Chicago.—(U)—The combined forces of rain, business recession and labor troubles this summer have given the circus business the worst drubbing in its history—but the count hasn't reached 10 yet.

Veteran circus men and close observers predict the saw-dust rings will be back "bigger and better" next year, if the business pickup continues and normal weather conditions prevail. But just so that everything won't be left to chance, an organization of circus fans has mapped out a nationwide program to "keep the circus from going the way of the small town opera house."

When the Cole Brothers-Clyde Beatty circus pulled stakes at Bloomington, Ill., this week and headed for winter headquarters in Rochester, Ind., it became the third well-known "big top" to call it quits this season.

Ringling First To Quit

The Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus first ruptured the "show must go on" tradition, when beset by labor troubles and dwindling receipts, it packed up at Scranton, Pa., late in June and moved in to winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla.

The Downie Brothers Circus, owned by Charles Sparks, closed July 1 in Delaware.

Misfortune also overtook the Little Shows. The Seils-Sterling Circus, a motorized unit closed three weeks ago at Sheboygan, Wis. Two smaller shows folded up in the east.

Circus lovers, however, aren't taking this sitting down. At Madison, Wis., this week, the Circus Fans Association of America assigned a subcommittee to work out a plan for preserving an "institution typically American." Cooperating with the Association, groups of advertising men have banded together behind the leadership of Frank W. Magnin of Detroit in a "save the circus" movement.

Magnin said he hoped to have the signatures of 500,000 children on a petition to present to President Roosevelt next month, in an effort to get the chief executive to compose labor differences.

13 More Listed as Eligible for Jobs In New State Bureau

Madison.—(U)—Thirteen additional eligible candidates for jobs in the new state bureau of inspection and enforcement has been forwarded to its director, George M. Keith, from the bureau of personnel.

Keith has already placed 11 new men from an earlier list of 17 candidates. A total of 23 inspectors and 18 enforcers will be hired to replace the men who failed to pass civil service tests ordered by the 1937 legislature.

The legislature consolidated into a single bureau the state enforcement and inspection agencies.

Nine have been removed from posts held prior to the consolidation.

Four of the candidates certified from civil service lists as eligible already hold jobs. They are Edmund L. Lenahan and Robert Ellis, of Madison and Glenn R. Marsden, Cambridge, enforcers; and Harold M. Wylie, Watonsville, inspector.

Other candidates in the new list are Walter A. Denning, of Oshkosh; and Leigh W. Hollister, Oshkosh; Frederick J. Goff, Madison; and Glenn J. Hamels, Portage, enforcers; and Philip D. Lampert, Oshkosh; Nicholas J. Berg, Elkhart; Alvan A. Kupper, Baraboo; Donald R. France, Milwaukee; Joseph W. Siebold, Ringle and Denning.

Commission Acts to End Farm Trucking Dispute

Madison.—(U)—The public service commission announced a ruling today to settle a dispute of several months standing over the extent to which trucks hauling farm products shall be exempted from the state motor transportation taxes.

The commission said it will adhere to the provision of law that the exemption applies only to products moved "immediately and directly from the point of production."

Agricultural product is hauled to one point and there stored and later transported in another truck to some other destination, it is obviously not transported immediately and directly from the point of production," the commission stated.

Declaring that the law is clear on this point the commission said it can be changed only by the legislature.

Refreshments at Any Hour With a New Coolerator

Pure Ice in Fine Refrigerator Is Basis for Real Enjoyment

One o'clock in the morning or 6 o'clock in the evening — a cold glass of beer, a delicious cold salad, or whatever tasty bit of refreshment you may desire is all in a day's work for families who are enjoying Lutz Ice Company's Pure-Manufactured ice food protection service. Users of Lutz Pure-Manufactured ice service have no dangerous chemicals to worry about; no intricate machinery that may break down just when they need refrigeration protection most of all.

Pure-Manufactured ice, users know, is positively safe, because it protects foods with clean, pure moisture. Ice too is economical because you can get as much as you need when you need it, although most users of Lutz Pure-Manufactured ice maintain a constant supply all seasons of the year because they know foods must be guarded against spoilage at all times. Ice too, is versatile — because it not only protects but is also the secret of tempting desserts.

Scientists point out that pure ice, used in a good refrigerator, performs certain vital functions, which no other type of refrigerator can do. For example, in the proper refrigerator it produces the correct cold temperature without sapping the moisture from foods or drying them out. It produces a steady, constant air circulation which washes and purifies the air by carrying the odors and gases given off by the food to the surface of the ice where melting ice produces the water which absorbs these gases and odors and carries them away through the drain pipe.

Protects Food

Ice forms the basis for more weather comfort and protection of food than any other commodity and good ice scientifically made by the best refrigeration methods known, is recognized, of course, as being highly economical and absolutely pure. Lutz' modern ice plant makes certain that only the finest, purest ice possible is produced, for it maintains the most modern equipment for manufacturing of pure-manufactured ice.

The type of refrigerator or the ice used is, of course, a most important point in receiving the ultimate in food protection. Here is where the Coolerator, the air-conditioned refrigerator steps in and eliminates any probability of the finest protection possible. Stop in at the Lutz office at 304 N. Superior street at any time and see the new Coolerator models which have caused so much favorable comment throughout the entire country.

Babson Sees Hope Rails Will Shake Off Recent Slump

Several Factors Contribute To Brighter Outlook For Carriers

BY ROGER BABSON
Babson Park, Mass. — The outlook for the railroads has brightened a lot in the last two months. In May, the entire industry was racing straight toward bankruptcy. Today, there is new hope that the slump will shake off the recent slump without additional receiver ships. This improvement is typical of the sharp ups-and-downs which the industry has experienced since 1931. For seven years the carriers have had one foot in the grave. Yet every time people start burping the industry, it suddenly springs back to life!

This time the rally is due to a number of factors. First, there is the spectacular upswing in business. Freight car loadings were down to 500,000 at the low point early in June. Now they are around 600,000. This jump is striking at the railroad's biggest basic problem, namely, the steady loss in traffic since 1929. If cross-revenues could be pulled back to a reasonable level most other problems would vanish. There is a possibility that the present rally in business will turn into a real prosperity period. If the current improvement we have already had in carloadings is maintained, carriers' revenues should be boosted $100,000,000 annually.

Rate Increase Helps
The second aid to the industry is the freight rate increase granted last April. At that time, with the outlook so gloomy, with traffic dropping so fast, and with monthly deficits so huge, this advance in rates seemed insignificant. Now, with traffic rising and better business ahead, the added revenues from the higher rates are becoming more and more important. Based on today's traffic level, it is estimated that this rate change should yield $100,000,000 a year in additional revenue. Bear in mind, also, that this figure will continue to mount as loadings multiply.

The next favorable item is the fact that the railroad industry has forced tariffs from 2 to 21 cents per mile on July 25. In the long run, I believe that the lower rate would be better. I am opposed to solving any industry's problems by increasing the price of its product or service. However, in the case of the railroads, I think that it was necessary to do so at this time. The higher fares may yield $30,000,000 a year in new revenues.

Wage Cut Ahead
Then there is the possibility of a wage cut. A year ago, employees received a 7.5 per cent boost in pay. This was absolutely unwarranted. Now railroad managements say that because of huge losses in revenues, workers must take a 15 per cent cut. The seniority rule prevails in the railroad unions as in most other unions. For ten years the carriers have been forced to lay off workers as other transportation methods took away their business. For this reason, the majority vote has fallen into the hands of the older employees.

The latter, apparently sure of their jobs, seem more interested in the amount of money in their pay envelope than in the number of men at work or in the total payroll. The net result is that railroad wages are today the highest on record and the number of workers the lowest in 40 years. Now my guess is that the rail unions will compromise. As part of this compromise, employees will take a wage reduction of between 5 and 7 1/2 per cent. Based on current payrolls, this should save the industry about $100,000,000 annually.

"Feather-Bedding" Is Bad
In addition to the pay slash, the so-called "feather-bedding" feature may be kicked out. The latter means giving employees pay for hours they do not work. Union rules say that covering 100 miles is equivalent to a day's work. These rules have existed for years. Today, fast trains run 400 miles in a few hours, but their crews are paid for four day's work. In addition to, or as an alternative to, the wage cut, there is a good chance that this stacking of the payroll will go to this fall. Another estimated $100,000,000 could thus be saved.

The final "helping hand" is the recession itself. By that I mean that the railroads in the last twelve months have learned how far they can stretch their dollars. Commodity prices are way below a year ago. In material buying alone the roads are probably saving at the rate of $30,000,000 annually compared with 1937. Moreover, thousands of employees have been discharged. In spite of higher wage rates, the payroll is $25,000,000 below last year's level. In addition, there have been hundreds of small economies which collectively amount to a big sum.

Savings Almost Half Billion

|--------------------------|----------------------|
| Freight Traffic Increase | $100,000,000 |
| Freight Rate Increase | 100,000,000 |
| Face Increase | 30,000,000 |
| Wage Cut | 100,000,000 |
| "Feather-Bedding" | 100,000,000 |
| Saving | 30,000,000 |
| Material Buying | 30,000,000 |
| Payroll Saving | 25,000,000 |
| Total | $485,000,000 |

Now, of course, as their business increases the railroads' expenses will also increase. More men will have to be put back to work, more money will have to be spent on road bed, depots, etc., more equipment will have to be bought. However, a big portion of this $485,000,000 should be carried into net income. The industry's annual deficit has been running around $300,000,000. Hence, if all these estimated savings take place, the carriers should

DINNER OUT—AND FAMILY SMILES

Beautiful Furs Featured at August Sale Prices at Kriek's Smart Store

Because the purchase of a good fur coat is the equivalent of a good investment, Kriek Furs, 220 E. College avenue, have made special arrangements to present only 1939 styles in the fur's August sale of furs. Thus it is possible for Kriek customers to save today on the furs to tomorrow during this dramatic August event.

Featured in the 1939 styles at Kriek's are cooled showrooms, foxed raccoons, new tunic models, boxy nevers, silhouette swaggers, modified princess designs and short bolero jackets. At the exceptionally low August sale prices, these coats are the most remarkable values that fur purchasers have seen in many seasons. Fur prices are low just now. Kriek's point out, and these savings plus the August prices, make the purchase of a fur coat highly desirable.

Kriek's choose the highest quality pelts to be made into fur coats. The Kriek reputation for using only the finest obtainable pelts is jealously guarded. This reputation, it is felt, is the customer's surest guarantee of satisfaction.

do Heffle any good, but it'll leave ample time to settle your account!" "You haven't got the guts to settle my account!"

"Haven't got the — why, you dry-gulchin' killer!" That was as far as Ratchford got. Ankrom's fist smashed hard against the sheriff's lips with a force that sent him sprawling. He got up, one hand tugging at the shoulder-bolstered pistol beneath his coat. Ankrom's posture did not change until the weapon came in sight. Then his hand went snapping down. Like a cracking whip his gun sprang clear of leather; spat, tensely, and with bulging eyes in a face gone white, Tom Ratchford stared stupidly at the number of fingers of his shaking hand. His gun was in the sand a good eight feet away, its mechanism jammed by Ankrom's lead.

"You was sayin', sheriff—" Ratchford's lips drooped, but not before Ankrom had seen the new caution flooding their smoky depths. The words he spoke came through clenched teeth. "You take this trick, Streeter — but some other gent'll be draggin' in the next. If you ain't fannin' dust inside two hours, I'll see that you're strung up for the killin' of Kelton Dream."

Ankrom's laugh mocked the sheriff. "I'll be fannin' dust, all right. Fannin' it toward that bunch of mevin' sheepmen. Next time you try throwin' down on a man you bety have your gun in hand an' make sure he ain't lookin'!" Stammering round on his heel Ankrom set off toward the corral, again able to pay their bills and meet the interest on their bonds.

Basic Problems Not Solved Therefore, I am hopeful that the danger of more railroad receiver ships has gone by for the time being. In fact, railroad securities may score a sharper gain in price than any other group over the next six months! But do not forget that the above betterments in the rail situation have not altered the long-term, underlying problems of the carriers. For this latter reason, wise investors are now beginning to reduce their railroad holdings. Often it is not safe to wait too long for the anticipated higher prices. Everyone cannot sell at the same time. (Copyright, 1938)

Health Defense in Home Is Adequate Medicine Supply

Chest Filled With Supplies From Belling's Is Real Safeguard

Mothers always have some kind of worry over their family's health; in the winter, the common cold has to be watched and in the summer children have to be guarded against infections from cuts, bruises, and rashes which come from playing outside among all the weeds and odd bits of glass and nails, carelessly thrown about where children are apt to play. The medicine chest plays an important part in the home and especially so where there are children. In order to be on the safe side, mothers make sure that their medicine chests are full of the first-aid needs which are so indispensable in every home all the year-round.

A medicine chest which lacks the essentials needed for first aid treatment, is, of course, of little value when reserves are needed to complete its equipment. It becomes necessary to call on a reliable pharmacy. The reputation which Belling's Drug Store at 304 E. College avenue has established during its 39 years of service in this community is recognized in the long list of local people who make Belling's Drug Store their headquarters for all drug supplies. In addition to its reputation as a reliable supplier of drugs, Belling's is known for its expert prescription department and is termed by many as the "prescription drug-store."

Belling's Drug Store carries a complete line of Max Factor beauty aids which are especially necessary in the toilet of the discriminating woman during this hot weather. They handle 12 different makeup toiletries. Smart women are making it a habit to stop in at Belling's and purchase makeup supplies.

4-H Club Members Have Their Monthly Meeting

Sherwood — Construction of the new home of Mrs. Gertrude Maurer, which is being built next to her present home, is well underway. About eighty workmen of the C. M. and St. Paul R. R. moved to the local station Tuesday. They are lining and filling in the track for fast-track train service over the local road.

Members of the Wide-A-Wake 4-H club attended the monthly meeting of the club Wednesday evening at Spoerl's hall. Reports on various projects were given and a motion was carried to hold a special meeting next Wednesday evening.

Each member will bring one or more prizes to be used on the cherry tree at the annual club fair and picnic which will be held Aug. 20 and 21 at Sherwood.

Members of the Catholic youth organization of Sacred Heart church, attended a meeting Tuesday evening at their club room. After the meeting adjourned cards were played and later a lunch was served by the social committee.

City Can't Accept Stock

In Payment for Water

Madison—(7)—The public service commission Friday informed the city of Bloomer, Chippewa county, that it cannot accept stock in a brewery as payment for water furnished the brewery by its municipal utility.

Acceptance of anything but money, unless the value of the property received could be definitely fixed, would be a violation of state law, the commission's examining section ruled.

Where the property is of problematical value and also where its market value, if any, is subject to rapid fluctuation, we think its acceptance in place of money is an unlawful discrimination against other customers," the opinion said.

Second Generation Tent Colonist From Waupaca at U. of W.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison — Stories of mother and daughter and father and son combinations at the University of Wisconsin's summer school session this year were matched today by John Lampman, Jr., of Waupaca, who represents the second generation of a family of tent colonists at the university this summer.

Mr. Lampman's father spent eight summers at the university taking his Ph.D. degree, and the Lampman family lived in the university's famous tent colony each year so that Henry, Jr., practically grew up there. Now he is there with his family studying for a Ph.D. degree.

The tent colony is one of the best known features of the state school campus in summer. Several hundred colonists with their families camp out during the session, renting tent sites from the university, cooking their own meals, and in general living as do vacationing campers. The only difference is that the colonists are students, many of them teachers, in the graduate departments of the university.

Truck Taxes Expected To Reach All-Time Top

Madison—(7)—The public service commission estimated Friday that collections of truck taxes would reach an all time high this year despite a decline in business. For the first seven months bus and truck operators have paid $804,960. The previous record for 12 months was $1,100,000. The commission attributed the increase to efficient operation under the new law which became effective last Jan. 1 and to reorganization of the permits department.
